ROOT ADDRESSES CLASS.

Only High Officials Present at Army War College Opening.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The formal opening of the Army War College was signalized today by an important address by Secretary Root, popularly known as "the father" of the institution. On account of the limited capacity of the lecture hall in which the exercises were held, the attendance was limited to the President and members of his cabinet, members of the diplomatic corps, the principal officers of the army, navy and marine corps, and other leading officials of the government.

General W. W. Wotherspoon, U. S. A., president of the college, presided and introduced Mr. Root, who addressed the student class, which numbers 30 members. He referred to the splendid results which already had been acquired by the college, and indicated his belief that it ultimately will do great work in advancing the military efficiency of the nation.

The War College has been in operation several years, but has occupied its present quarters since June, 1907. The building in which it is now located was begun February 21, 1906, when the corner-stone was laid by President Roosevelt, and was ready for occupancy in the summer of 1907. A class of students was graduated last fall, but without any formal ceremonies, the official opening being delayed until today.

The War College is under the control of the general staff of the army. Its purpose is the direction and coordination in the army and in civil schools of the colleges at which officers of the army are detailed, and it supplements the military education received by officers at West Point and the service schools.

SHOT A FEW DOORS FROM HIS HOME.

Postmaster of New York Expected to Recover.

Assailant a Stenographer, Who at Once Kills Himself.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Postmaster Edward M. Morgan of this city was shot down in the street in front of his home in West One Hundred and Forty-sixth street for the post-office this morning by Erich H. B. Mackey, a stenographer employed by a down-town law firm, who then shot and killed himself. The single bullet which struck Mr. Morgan entered at the right side of the abdomen and passed out at the left side without penetrating the walls. There was no internal bleeding and there is every likelihood that the wounded man will recover in a short time.

The only excuse known for the shooting was that Mackey had complained to the authorities at the post-office in Washington that his mail had been tampered with, and that some one turned out an electric light when he was reading by it in the corridor of the post-office. Mackey had received a reply that there was no evidence of tampering with his mail, and that the incident of the electric light was an accident. Mackey's employers, the firm of Hunt, Hill & Betts, declared that they could account for the tragedy only on the theory that Mackey was insane. Beside a revolver, it was found that Mackey carried a dagger and a sling shot. Mackey was an Englishman, 41 years of age, and was formerly employed in Boston.

The shooting took place in the presence of Miss Dorothy Morgan, the 14-year-old daughter of the postmaster, who was accompanying him to the subway on her way to school. Mackey had been pacing up and down the sidewalk near the corner of Broadway and One Hundred and Forty-sixth street for two hours before the shooting. When Mr. Morgan and his daughter left their home and walked toward Broadway Mackey turned down the side street and met them.

Evidently he had never seen the postmaster before, for as he met Mr. Morgan he asked: "Are you Postmaster Morgan?" On Mr. Morgan's affirmative reply Mackey drew his revolver and fired one shot into the postmaster's abdomen. The wounded man fell to the sidewalk, and as two witnesses of the shooting came running up Mackey lay down on the sidewalk, opened his vest and sent a bullet crashing into his head and another into his heart. He was dead when the first man reached him.

As he lay there, with the revolver still clenched in his hand, several persons who had witnessed the double shooting rushed up to the assistance of Mr. Morgan, whom some of them had recognized. A physician was called from a house near by, and was told the wounded man within a few moments after the first shot had been fired. With the assistance of a number of men in the crowd which quickly gathered he removed Mr. Morgan to his residence, only a few doors from the corner. There another physician was called in consultation. It was at first thought the bullet had passed entirely through the stomach, and the doctors held out little hope for Mr. Morgan's recovery. Hurried preparations were made to perform an operation, however. When the physicians made a closer examination they found that the wound was not as serious as at first supposed. The walls of the stomach was not penetrated by the ball, the bullet having merely passed through the fleshy portion of the abdomen for eight inches, inflicting a superficial wound. It was said that Mr. Morgan was resting easily, and there was no cause for alarm. He declared that he did not know Mackey, and never saw him before the shooting. It was learned that a man answering Mackey's description had called at Mr. Morgan's home three times during the past ten days, during his absence.

While the surgeons were working over Mr. Morgan at his home, in an effort to save his life, the body of the man who fired the shot and then killed himself was lying on the sidewalk where he had fallen. A great crowd had gathered at the scene, and a detail of policemen who had been rushed to the place after the shooting stood over the body. They were directed to guard it and prevent its removal until the arrival of the coroner.

Mr. Morgan has been connected with the postal service in New York for more than a quarter of a century. He began his career as a letter carrier 21 years ago, and worked his way to the top. Last year he was promoted from assistant postmaster to the position of postmaster, to succeed William R. Wilcox, who became a public service commissioner. Mr. Morgan is the Republican leader in the Washington Heights assembly district. The first news of the shooting with the report that it would be fatal for Mr. Morgan created consternation at the postoffice where the postmaster is greatly loved.

Mackey had told the people with whom he lived that his father is H. P. Mackey, a lawyer, living at No. 19 Brown street, Cambridge, Mass.

Mackey came to America from England nine years ago, worked for a time in Boston, and then came to this city. Mackey was held in high esteem by his employers, who say they are completely at a loss to explain his act. The only clue they found which may have led to the tragedy is contained in a number of letters addressed to Mr. Morgan. These letters indicate that about a week ago he had complained to the postmaster that some letters had not been properly delivered. These correspondence was signed by some of the regular reports [illegible] Mackey complained that letters addressed to him had not been delivered, and had any dealings with Postmaster Morgan. Among papers found on Mackey's person was an envelope addressed to Miss Anna Mackey, Class of Training School for Nurses, Anna [illegible]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Initial steps for the construction of another monster battleship for the American navy were taken today, when proposals for its construction were opened at the Navy Department. This will be known as battleship No. 31, and already has been designated by the President to be called the Utah. She is to be a ship of about 21,825 tons' trial displacement, and is to be a sister ship of the Florida, which is to be constructed by the government at the Brooklyn navy yard. Both vessels were authorized at the last session of Congress. No decision has yet been reached as to the character of engines to be installed and bidders were given the privilege of submitting proposals for turbine and reciprocating engines. Much interest centred in the bidding.

For building a 21-knot ship the Fore River Shipbuilding Company underbid William Cramp & Sons the former figures being $4,446,000 and the latter $4,450,000.

NOT A RICH MAN'S GAME.

Taft Will Do All He Can to Make Golf a Popular Exercise.

HOT SPRINGS, Nov. 9.—"I am going to do my part to make golf one of the popular outdoor exercises," asserted William H. Taft, as he made a forward drive in beginning a game with Governor-Elect Eben Draper of Massachusetts here today.

"A man of my build requires exercise in the open air," Mr. Taft said, "and exercise, to be beneficial, must be entertaining, of course. I can't [illegible] my one cannot maintain a keen interest in riding a horse. In golf there is just enough skill required to get up a keen interest in the game, and it takes up your thoughts while you are getting a five or six mile walk."

Mr. Taft maintains that golf is not a rich man's game. It was said Mr. Taft believes it put him in the splendid physical condition he was in when he took to the strenuous work of the campaign and enabled him to get through it without a breakdown. He will play the game this winter as often as possible, to get a slight relaxation at the White House from work.

The state of Georgia came to the Taft fold yesterday, leaving Texas the Taft state for the winter. Mr. Taft received a wire from Mr. Robert B. Hodges of Atlanta, arrived with many good wishes and full delegation of Georgia people. He was [illegible] by Harry S. Jackson, a Atlanta attorney. SHEFFIELD LOSES IN HOME CITY.

First Two Wards Show Gain of 14 for Granger.

No Doubt of Former's Election by Good Plurality.

(Special despatch to the News.)

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 9.—The State Board of Public Officers this afternoon recount its labors on the count of the ballots cast in the last election and upon the returns from Newport. The recount of the Ward Two wards of that city resulted in a net loss of 14 votes for Sheffield, he having lost one in the First ward and nine in the Second, according to the returning boards count, while Granger gained two votes in each of these wards. The addition to the returns leaves Sheffield with a plurality of 1182 votes so far as the count has progressed, but there are many more districts to be counted and many of them are known to be such as will greatly cut down this lead. Yet there seems to be no doubt now but that, when the count is completed, the election of Mr. Sheffield will be accorded by a comfortable plurality.

(Special Despatch to the News.)

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 9.—In the superior court today the case of the First Baptist Church vs. John H. Wetherell was given a hearing on the defendant's motion to dismiss the plaintiff's action in the case of trespass and ejectment on four counts, decision on two of which was rendered last June.

JAP WINS IN JUMPER CLASS.

Largest List of Entries and Best of Stock at Horse Show.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—With a decorative scheme much more brilliant than that of preceding years, which has been limited to yellow and black, the National Horse Show Association's officers, Madison Square Garden presented a brilliant appearance at the opening of the horse show today, blues and reds having been used with striking effect.

Never in the 24 years in which the horse show has been given has there been a larger list of entries, or have the animals entered been of better stock. Last year's show was marred a little by the financial depression, but this year, with returning prosperity, the show is expected to be one which will go down in the annals of the national horse show as one of the most brilliant exhibitions ever held under its auspices. The show is also expected to hold its own in a social way.

There has been a rumor that this year's show was to be the last given by the association, but the secretary of the show, James T. Hyde, declared that the show will continue to be given as long as there is a dollar in the treasury of the National Horse Show Association.

During the first hour a score or more of saddle horses were exercised in the rings. These were ridden by their exhibitors, including Mrs. Ambrose Pierce, a noted woman professional from London, who is here to ride for R. P. McGrann of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Herbert Cox of Toronto, Canada. Mrs. Pierce's mount this morning, Lady Stuart, one of Mr. McGrann's most valuable thoroughbreds, attracted much attention.

In the jumper class the bay gelding Jap, exhibited by Joseph Kilgour of Toronto, Canada, was awarded first honors.

MAY PREVENT CO-EDUCATION.

Supreme Court Decision in Favor of State of Kentucky.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—In deciding the case of Berea College vs. the state of Kentucky favorable to the state the Supreme Court of the United States today held that the states of the Union may constitutionally legislate to prevent the association of the white and black races. The case was instituted to test the validity of the state law of 1904 prohibiting white and black children from attending the same schools. The higher state court ruled that the black and white races are naturally antagonistic, and that the enforced separation of the children of the two is in the line of the preservation of the peace. The opinion of the Supreme Court was handed down by Justice Brewer and affirmed by the ruling of both the Kentucky circuit court and the court of appeals. Justices Harlan and Day dissented.

CROWDS NEAR THE TOMBS.

New Yorkers Heard Morse Was to Be Taken to Federal Building.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Centre street, near the Tombs prison, presented a scene this afternoon unlike anything since the last trial of Harry K. Thaw. More than 1,500 persons were crowded into the narrow thoroughfare, and the crowd was steadily growing in size long before 2 o'clock. A report that Charles W. Morse, who last week was sentenced to 15 years in prison, was to be taken to the federal building this afternoon, where his counsel was to make an effort to obtain his release on bail, was responsible for the gathering. At 1:30 when an electric cab containing Mrs. Morse and her two stepsons came down toward the Tombs it was only with the greatest difficulty that a passageway was cleared through the crowded street. Mr. Morse met his wife and boys in the reception room.

"I think I shall leave this apartment this afternoon," said Morse, as he stood at the grated door," and I don't think I'll come back. I want to thank you for the consideration you have shown me here but I'd just as soon be out," he said to the guards.

RELIGION IN POLITICS.

President Roosevelt Condems It and Declares It Un-American.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—A sweeping condemnation of the practice of William H. Taft as a Presidential candidate which was based on the fact that the Chairman is a Protestant religious belief was uttered today by President Roosevelt.

"To discriminate against a thoroughly upright citizen because he belongs to some particular church, or because his religious belief is not avowed, is all wrong to any church, is contrary to the spirit of liberty of conscience which is one of the foundations of our form of government," says the President.

"In my cabinet I have had Catholics and Protestants, Jews and Gentiles, each and all equally honored, because they were the men best fitted for the place, and because I knew that each and all would be loyal to the interests of the country as a whole, and would not in any way show favoritism to any man because he belonged to any particular church, or because he did not belong to any church. Nothing but good has come from the fact that I have had in my cabinet men of different creeds, and I have not the slightest hesitation in saying that I shall do the same thing if I am President."

The President adds that he has been informed that certain Democrats have circulated a report that he (Roosevelt) is a Catholic, and he denounces the report as a lie.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed his views in a letter addressed to Henry C. Mason of Topeka, Kan. He prefaces Mr. Mason's letter with the statement that he believes it proper to make PRACTICAL use of a matter which has come to him in the form of a letter addressed to him by Mr. Mason, and which contains a statement of his own conviction. The paragraph in the letter made public and which Mr. Roosevelt discussed reads as follows: "Mr. President, I am a Democrat, but I have always voted the Republican ticket since the election of Lincoln, except once when I voted for Grover Cleveland. I am a member of the Protestant church, and I declare to you that if the Democratic party should nominate a Catholic for President I would be compelled to vote against him, and I know that I am speaking the sentiment of the great majority of the Democrats of Kansas when I say this."

Mr. Roosevelt says he replied to this letter

Klaw & Erlanger's [illegible] "Girls" is [illegible] which it achieved there last year. After filling engagements in and near New York city, the play will be sent into Western territory. The battle scene, with the ride of the mounted Indians down the trail which creeps along the canon walls, is a notable one. Marlyn Arbuckle, as the fat sheriff whom "nobody loves," was never more happily cast than in the role of "Slim" Hoover.

"A Kentucky Boy," by Paulin Phillips and Marion Short, will be Klaw & Erlanger's next production. The play is now in rehearsal. In this drama the authors open a new field for stage purposes, although one cultivated by the novelist. Cut off from the world by mountain ridges and lack of access by railroads, the dramatic student is likely to find stirring plots and strong characters in the territory which the women playwrights now invade. "A Kentucky Boy" is a wholesome play typical of the land and the men and women who dwell therein. Its scenes are laid in the mountains of Kentucky, the Big Sandy region and in New Orleans. Primarily the plot deals with the development and climax of a feud.

Louis Mann is to spend the remainder of the season in the Circle Theatre, New York, by virtue of an arrangement effected by his manager, William A. Brady. Jules Eckert Goodman's play called "The Man Who Stood Still" will be the actor's sole offering for the season, so far as the regular performances are concerned. He will, however, make his long-promised appearance as Shylock, in "The Merchant of Venice," soon after the Christmas holidays, giving the comedy with a special cast and a series of afternoon performances. A prominent London actress, now acting in this country, will be the Portia.

THE REAL SURNAME.

"What is the real surname of the English royal family?" is a question which puzzles not a few people, and not unfrequently causes no small amount of discussion owing to different opinions on the subject. Nearly nine out of every 10 persons, when asked the question unhesitatingly answer "Guelph." This is not quite correct, for, although the royal family of Guelphs by descent, the late Queen Victoria, of course, changed her name when she married the late Prince Consort. His family name was Wettin, and consequently it became the surname of the queen and all her descendants.

A Reception Gown.

Fringes having again come into style are being used on the more ceremonious type of winter costumes, such as those designed for afternoon receptions, visiting and dinners. On the silk cashmere, faille Francaise and satin reception gowns the long silk and knotted fringe of a matching tone is employed to border the draped tunic, which is often attached to a shawl fashion over the hips, falling thence to the train of the skirt. The best type of afternoon reception gowns has the net or chiffon sleeves under neath simply draped bodices, which in turn have fringe borders wherever possible.

Frazzled to a frizzle;
They have got the razzle-dazzle
And Bill Taft's the poorhouse.
New Bill Bryan may be frazzle
Since we've got his gold bedazzled,
And he's leaden to a frizzle,
Fathergrasted and bearclawed.

Yes! he thought he could bezazzle
Us and we'd be defrizzled,
But we nipped him in the nazzle
And he found he was disabled,
Now for four years Taft will wazzle,
And my policies he'll chazzle,
Since we've licked 'em to a frazzle
In the game they tried to dazzle.

NOMINATING MUNICIPAL CANDIDATES.

Now that the municipal election is approaching and the time for nominating candidates is at hand, it may be well to think for a moment what is necessary to secure the best men to represent us in the conduct of the city's affairs. Regrets is often expressed because such men will not take office, but whether the statement is true or false is not so important as to know what is to be done to secure their service for the city. The new charter provides a simple way whereby any one may take the initiative. If one thinks a certain man is eminently fitted to fill a certain office, all he needs to do is to obtain the consent of the latter, hustle to induce the requisite number of voters who think as he does to sign a nomination paper, and then he and the other signers do all possible to secure the election. A little work is worth much more than much complaining. A man's politics should not be allowed to enter into the matter; his fitness for the office should be the only consideration.

DECLINE TO SERVE.

Charles H. Ward and Joel Peckham, the Republican candidates for senator and representative respectively from Middletown, have done what all who know them expected they would do regarding the election tangle in that town. They publicly decline to accept the election to which the returning board has declared them entitled on the face of the ballots, but to which they know they are not entitled as having received a majority of the votes. The stand thus taken is approved by the Republican party in the town, which feels that it cannot take advantage of a technical error to obtain places in the General Assembly to which it is not entitled.

There is no doubt that a way will be found whereby the Citizens' party candidates will secure the seats in the General Assembly to which they were elected, whether it be by a decision of the court or by the action of the senate and house of representatives. If no way can be found under the law, it is possible that Messrs. Ward and Joel Peckham declining to serve, Messrs. Brown and Frank T. Peckham will still hold their seats until their successors are elected and qualified. This would solve the present difficulty. But it would be better for the court to provide or suggest some remedy which will prevent a recurrence of a similar error in the printing of the ballots. The ballot is to record the wishes of the people, and there should be no opportunity for a mistake which will prevent the expression of the will of the majority. If the present law is not sufficient, one of the first things to be done by the legislature at its next session should be to pass an amendment to the elections laws that will make it impossible for such an error to occur again.

JUDGE PARKER'S HOPEFULNESS.

Judge Parker not only gave Bryan hearty support, though Bryan was the principal cause of his defeat in 1904, but he is even magnanimous to say that the election of Mr. Bryan would have been far better for the country. In view of the fact that he is a lawyer and was long a member of the highest court in the greatest state, and that he never succumbed to the free silver mania, and all his professional and political associations have been with the conservative elements, it is hard to believe that the judge really thinks Bryan's defeat was a bad thing for the country.

He may be an unusual Democrat and he may be forgiving his record straight with all the Republican Democrats with reference to 1912, or he may be merely saying the politic thing. It is hard to believe that to be earnest and easy to believe that he has political ambitions which involve the thorough unification of the party. But Judge Parker has been defeated once, and he has none of the elements of popularity possessed in so liberal a measure by Mr. Bryan. It is not very likely that he will again be nominated for the Presidency.

Of course it is of the utmost importance from a party standpoint that the party should be united and past quarrels forgotten. The gold Democrats and the Silver Democrats, the conservative Democrats and the radicals, the real Democrats and the Populists who have affiliated with the Democratic party for no particular reason except that both were opposed to the Republicans, have not pulled together since 1892, and they must come together if they are to carry any more elections. It may be that the judge has no personal ends to serve, but is merely trying to smooth over the breaks and bring his party together when he describes, very much in Bryan's language, the things which he believes the Democratic party needs. But his party can never win another election until it shall slough off the Populist and socialist elements and return to the political theories of Tilden and Cleveland. There is room in the country for such a party.

RETURNING IMMIGRATION.

The tide of immigration is anticipating the tide of industrial and business prosperity. The latter has not set in very strong as yet, although there are many evidences that it will not be long before it will be making itself felt with strength and permanency, but the former is increasing almost every day and is constant in its flow. Recently the round figures of the whole year thus far were quoted in New York and almost every incoming steamer is well loaded with steerage passengers, showing that the ebb which was so marked a few months ago has given way to an influx in this country from foreign shores. These newcomers seem to scent afar the better times ahead and are already giving intimations of their approach, and they are apparently determined to be on hand when prosperity arrives, in order to share quickly in the benefits which will accrue from the increased business activity and restored public confidence.

It is evident, too, that these foreigners pay heed more to other and more certain indications of an improved industrial condition than those which are centered in political prognostications. Here at home the people have been somewhat fearful lest the result of the election might seriously affect the business and financial world, and these influences have been at work to retard the recovery from the depression which was so marked the past year. Across the ocean that feeling does not appear to be prominent, or else these strangers have more confidence in the good judgment of the people in the exercise of their voting right, or a stronger belief in the ultimate adjustment of economic forces and conditions to bring about once more the prosperity which prevailed before the cataclysm came which paralyzed business and shattered financial institutions.

This steady incoming tide of immigrants is a hopeful sign that the good old times are coming back, for it is not reasonable to believe that the flow of foreigners which was set eastward when the hard times came would turn westward again so quickly unless there were good reason for it. That reason can be nothing else than a belief on the part of those who come and those who advise them to come that the conditions of business will soon warrant such a step and make it easy for them to secure the employment for which they cross the ocean. It is not probable that so many of these people and their advisers are mistaken and that the newcomers in such large numbers will be stranded here, with nothing to do because of a continuance of the stagnation of trade. It is far more reasonable to believe that the judgment of these foreigners and those who urge them to come is well founded and that this country is on the eve of another period of industrial prosperity such as was enjoyed previous to the collapse of credit and trade.

These newcomers should be welcome, therefore, for if they are capable and willing workers they will be needed before long and will help to make more speedy the return of better days and more extensive the prosperity soon to dawn. The impetus in business and industrial circles may not come within a few days after the election, for it would be unreasonable to expect so sudden a revival of activity and hope immediately following what is after all a somewhat fictitious and necessary time fixed in the minds of men for the resumption to begin. But that it will be in evidence before many weeks is believed by many, and that it will appear within a few months at most is the general expectation. The period of demoralization which has been arbitrarily set after which business should begin to improve has now been passed, and the sooner the better it will be for the country and the more reasonable it is to expect it to help push forward the car of progress which is to speed over the whole land.

The sheriffing of postmaster Morgan of New York emphasizes the truth of the old maxim that the use of hatchets and of explosives and fire arms should be avoided. We have a law against carrying of concealed weapons, and it is easy for any man who wishes to keep out of the clutches of the law to do so without carrying things without form.

MORSE'S SENTENCE.

[New York Tribune.]

The whole city said amen to the conviction of Charles W. Morse and his exemplary sentence to 15 years in jail. It satisfied the instinct for justice. No circumstance in any way extenuated his conduct or would justify the slightest sympathy for him. And the effect of his sentence is strengthened by the suspension of Carey's sentence. The law reached for and got the "one really responsible man," and it could afford to pass over the pitiful victim of an evil association.

Every now and then the public reads of a defalcation in a bank caused by the gambling of some trusted clerk or teller on the race track or in the stock market. Gambling by one of these subordinates has only one end. So certain is this that if the officers of a bank learn that an employe is gambling they discharge him at once without waiting for the defalcation, if the experts they set on his accounts find the bank's funds still intact. In the defunct Bank of North America the situation was only different in that the gambler who had access to its funds was not a subordinate, but its owner. Morse bought banks to gamble with their funds. He and his friends controlled a chain of banks in order to use them in carrying on Stock Exchange operations on a scale too large for their private fortunes or personal credit. The methods of the gambler in control of a bank were pretty well exposed in the Morse trial. The board of directors was, as Judge Hough said in this case, "supine." The president of the bank was under the thumb of its owner. As the judge said of Curtis: "He did not dare to oppose the master for fear of losing the most remunerative place he ever had or ever could expect to have."

Morse bought his banks in order to have at his command a credit which properly managed banks would refuse to him, and as his operations became more and more extended his banks became more and more involved in them, so that their fate was bound up with that of his speculations. His management of his banks was governed not by banking principles but by the exigencies of his own situation. If money was needed to keep his paper financial structure from toppling down the banks had to furnish it, regardless of the quality of security offered. His own account was liberally overdrawn. A speculative associate in desperate straits could have his check overcertified. Loans of huge sums were made in the names of penniless dummies. Stock of the speculative owner afforded as collateral was not subjected to such a scrutiny as it would have received from unprejudiced bankers. The money of the bank was used to give a fictitious value to stock which it held as collateral, or which other banks in the chain accepted as collateral at the fictitious value. The gambler in control of the bank did just what the smaller gambler in a subordinate capacity always does—he resorted to crime, misapplying the bank's funds and making false entries to conceal the misapplication from the Controller of the Currency. The little gambler steals and falsifies his accounts to hide the theft. The big gambler makes dummy loans and falsifies his accounts to hide them.

When the gambling banker happens to be as big a gambler as Morse—who blew two big Wall Street bubbles besides manipulating sundry pools and corners—the evils of speculative banking are widely felt. Morse's operations, sapping their credit, brought to ruin a whole string of banks, whose crash frightened depositors all over the country. He did not cause the panic, but he did much to intensify its severity. The strain on credit might have been adjusted with less disturbance, but for the extreme weakness in all the institutions whose loaning capacity he had injured in his stock gambling. The power for evil of such a man where stable credit is of such vast consequence as in modern industrial society is tremendous.

CATCHING COLD.

[New York Tribune.]

There is timeliness in a recent discussion by Dr. C. M. Richter of San Francisco, of the causes of grip and pneumonia. He associates these diseases with "anticyclonic" weather, when the barometer rises and the temperature falls. He is disposed to believe, however, that the effects observed at such times are due to the mechanical influence of increased air pressure, and perhaps to an improved opportunity for some solar activity to manifest itself as a consequence of the heightened purity of the atmosphere. Dr. Richter does not consider the cold responsible.

Of course, it is for his professional brethren to pass judgment on this opinion, but it is fair to suggest the possibility that Dr. Richter may have overlooked one factor in the case. The air in high pressure areas is exceedingly dry. The usual method of measuring humidity is to place two thermometers side by side, the bulb of one being kept moist. When the atmosphere is pretty well charged with vapor the readings of the two instruments may not differ more than two or three degrees. On a very dry day the wet bulb thermometer will read 12 or 15 degrees lower than its companion, because evaporation then takes place rapidly and evaporation cools.

When a person is in a perspiration the condition of the skin more nearly resembles the wet bulb thermometer than the dry bulb instrument, and there is special susceptibility to the chilling influence of a dry atmosphere. Not infrequently at this season and during the winter months the ordinary thermometer will show that in a period of 24 hours there has been a fall of 20 degrees or more in the temperature. On the risk which the change involves it is not fully indicated if, as is usually the case, there has also been a consequent reduction in humidity. Properly to estimate any influence which the weather may have exert, eight or ten degrees should be subtracted from the dry bulb reading. May not cold, aggravated by dryness, be the chief agency in inducing grip, pneumonia or other disease at this season?

ECONOMY AT COURT OF BERLIN.

As to Berlin, court is economy to some extent, the startling fact is that of Berlin, but the latter prevents any unnecessary expenditure in a manner which is probably unique. Many ordinary purchases at a certain office have to be approved by the Kaiser. Occasionally even the Kaiser and Prince of Wales, who happens to be visiting Berlin, is asked to provide from his private purse a certain number of dishes for a specified sum of money. This seemed to be what the Emperor considered, and he could be found for himself and family on the occasion but very casual pleasure of the table.

AROUND RHODE ISLAND.

Delegates to Greater New England Conservation Conference.

Plans for Removal of Providence Postoffice—Rescues from Burning Buildings.

Governor Higgins has appointed the eight lay delegates to represent Rhode Island at the Greater New England Conservation conference to be held in Boston, November 23 and 24. The appointees are: President W. H. P. Faunce of Brown University, J. Herbert Shedd of Providence, State Forester Jesse E. Morry of Gloucester, Henry A. Barker of Providence, secretary of the Metropolitan Park Commission, Edward G. Buckland, vice president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad; Professor A. D. Mead of Brown University, Colonel Robert E. Bodman, engineer of the board of public roads, and Amasa M. Eaton. The governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general, general treasurer and Speaker of the house of each state are members ex-officio. As Governor Higgins will be unable to attend he has invited Governor-Elect Aram J. Pothier to represent him at the sessions of the congress.

The Providence postoffice will be closed to the public but seven hours as a necessary incident of removal from the old building on Weybosset street to the new quarters on Exchange place. The office will close at 11 o'clock on the night of Sunday, November 29, in the old building, and reopen in the new structure at 7 o'clock Monday morning, November 30. The selection of these hours, during which the office will not sell stamps, or deliver mail from boxes, or otherwise directly serve the public, are those which will afford the minimum of inconvenience. The boxes in the old office will be in use until the closing hour, and the seven hours interim will see all the mail removed and redistributed in the boxes in the new office, ready for the public at the opening hour. Before the date for opening the building the new postoffice will be completely equipped. There will be almost nothing left to transfer on the last night but the mail matter. The receipt and dispatching of mails will not be interrupted by the removal. The first dispatch of a mail from the new building will be the 3:30 a. m. for Boston, Monday, November 30. As far as letter and paper racks, punch racks, desks, etc., are concerned, the new postoffice is completely equipped today. The only missing paraphernalia are the carriers' cases. The carrier cases now in use, and some additional cases now in process of re-building, will be used in the new office.

Firemen rescued a six months' old baby from death in a burning house on Atwell's avenue, Providence, Saturday. Ladderman Robert McDonald mading the unconscious infant in a smoke-choked bedroom and handing him out to Captain Hutchison on the relief ladder. When the firemen reached the place, which was but a few doors from the station, they found the kitchen of the third story afame, and smoke filling most of the other rooms in the tenement. Two small children, sons of Amelio De Santi, had been left alone in the house while their parents were at work or engaged in marketing. Some one shouted that a baby had been left inside and Captain Hutchison had a ladder put up to the bedroom window. He entered by means of the ladder and the window, believing from the looks of things that entrance by way of the kitchen was impossible. Ladderman McDonald, however, had tried that avenue and made it in spite of the fire in the kitchen. The two firemen met in the bedroom and searched for the baby in the dense smoke. It was necessary for them every now and then to make for the window in order to breathe. At last McDonald cried that he had found the child, and as Captain Hutchison started out down the ladder, McDonald handed him the infant. Luigi, who was unconscious from the effects of the smoke. He was taken to a place of safety, and after a time was revived. The other child, Tomaso, four years old, made his way out unaided. The building was considerably damaged. Investigation after the fire disclosed the fact that the blaze was due to contact between a lounge and an oil stove, which had become overheated.

Nine persons had a narrow escape from death in a fire in a tenement house at Highland Park, Cranston, Sunday morning, when the house, a two-story building, was destroyed. The flames quickly cut off the two stairways, and the five occupants of the upper tenement had to make their way down the piazza posts. Most of them lost everything they had, and clothing was supplied to them by neighbors. While the firemen were being summoned the family up stairs, consisting of Romeo Cona, his wife, his sister and his two children, finding the stairways cut off by the smoke and flame, made their way to the roof of the piazza, which extended toward the street, and from there were assisted to the ground by the members of the family down-stairs. Mrs. Cona, half dressed, went to the home of Andrea Galdieri, near by, and there she and her children were cared for and received clothing. Others who had left the house not fully clad were supplied by the neighbors. Members of the Pocasset Fire Company say the fire had the appearance of incendiary origin, as it appeared to have started in several places at once.

From the peaceful waters of Rocky Point, Narragansett bay, to storm-beaten Cape Hatteras, N. C., in two months lacking three days, was the voyage made by a bottle cast overboard from steamer Mount Hope August 24 last. Adolph H. Jodet of Pawtucket and two friends were making a trip to Block Island and threw the bottle into the waters of the bay when off Rocky Point. A card with the name and address of Jodet and a request to the finder to communicate with him was placed in the bottle, which was then sealed. Jodet has received a letter dated October 2, from F. M. Miller, Avon, Dare county, N. C., saying that on the day previous the bottle was found with contents intact on the beach, eight miles north of Cape Hatteras life-saving station. The bottle evidently kept inside of the northward-bowing Gulf Stream and felt the influence of the prevailing northerly and easterly fall winds. If it drifted in a straight line, which probably it did not, the distance covered was about 500 miles. Sailing vessels, with baffling winds, mariners recall, have been known to occupy a longer time than the bottle required to cover the course between the two points.

The Rhode Island Vicksburg Monument Commission, with the official representatives of the state government and guests, to the number of 55, all told, left Saturday in a special Pullman sleeper for Mississippi, to formally dedicate the memorial which the state has erected in the Vicksburg National Military Park to commemorate the services of Rhode Island soldiers in the famous Civil War siege. The dedication ceremonies will take place next Wednesday.

Fifty members of the Rhode Island Citizens' Historical Association spent Saturday afternoon in viewing ancient localities and modern structures in Bristol. Several historic mansions were visited and their connection with old families famous in civic, military and maritime affairs was indicated. Among them, the old Colt, Howe and Bosworth homes and the new Colt Memorial High School had attention. Old churches, whose spires rising above the treetops years ago were welcome daybeacks for homecoming West Indiamen; signs of wharves once richly freighted, and the Burnside Memorial, with its suggestions of Civil War days, were noted with interest, but the olden-time people for whose wisdom admiration was most frequently expressed were those founders of over 200 years ago who believed in wide streets and many shade trees.

A French club, whose membership will be recruited from among the natives of France and other Europeans speaking the French language, will soon be founded in Providence. The promoters of the movement are Rene Quentin, president of "La Prevoyance" of Boston, who recently moved to Providence, where he will open a studio of painting, and Louis Lehman, president of the French Naturalization club of Olneyville. The two men are at present engaged in taking a census of the French people living here, and as soon as this has been completed they intend to call a meeting to perfect the organization. It is estimated that there are about 125 natives of France in Providence, and about 75 more Swiss, Belgians and other Europeans of French speech.

Stricken with apoplexy, while riding up College Hill, Providence, in an electric car Sunday evening, John A. Nisbet, an East Side landscape gardener, fell from his seat to the floor of the car, dead. Mr. Nisbet had apparently been in perfect health all day and was returning from the Union Station, where he had gone to meet two women who were coming to visit his family.

The number of cotton spindles in the country is now 27,964,357, and Rhode Island ranks fourth among the states in the cotton textile industry, according to a Census Bureau bulletin. During the year which ended August 31, last 27,505,402 spindles consumed cotton which was an increase of four per cent, over 1907. Of the three states which outrank Rhode Island in the number of spindles, Massachusetts comes first, with 34 per cent; South Carolina is second, with 13 per cent, and North Carolina third, with 11 per cent.

To the Electors of the Town of Middletown, R.I.

The undersigned, Charles H. Ward and Joel Peckham, who were the candidates of the Republican Party in Middletown for the offices of Senator and Representative respectively, having learned that the State Returning Board has declared them elected hereby state that, inasmuch as the majority of the electors of Middletown by their ballots cast at the election November 3d expressed their desire to have Abram A. Brown serve them as Senator and Frank T. Peckham serve them as Representative, they believe that said Brown and Peckham should be declared elected and as they are unwilling to accept an office which comes to them through such an unfortunate mistake they will not qualify thereof.

CHARLES H. WARD.

SHOT A FEW DOORS FROM HIS HOME.

Jacques Hospital, Newburyport, Mass." The envelope was empty. A cheap silver watch and a cheaper knife were found in Mackey's pockets.

COULD OFFER NO EXPLANATION.

Mackey's Sister So Affected She Could Not Talk Coherently.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Nov. 9.—Miss Anna Mackey, whose address was written on an envelope found in the pocket of Eric H. B. Mackey in New York today, is a sister of Postmaster Morgan's assailant. Miss Mackey came to this country from Ireland four years ago, and for the past 20 months has been attending the Lawrence training school in connection with the Anna Jacques Hospital in this city. When the news of her brother's suicide was received at the hospital today Miss Mackey was in the operating room and was not informed until later. When she heard the news she became hysterical and her condition was so serious that medical attention had to be given her. Miss Mackey was not able to talk coherently concerning her brother, and evidently could not offer any explanation for his action.

ONCE IN WORCESTER ASYLUM.

Friends of Mackey in Cambridge Believe He Was Insane.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Eric H. B. Mackey, who shot Postmaster E. M. Morgan in New York city today, and then killed himself, lived in Cambridge for a number of years, being employed at the factory of the Boston Woven Hose & Rubber Company in that city. He was born near Dublin, Ireland, and when a boy was taken by his family to Australia for a few years; then, at about the age of 15 years, came to Boston. His father, H. W. B. Mackey, lives in Cambridge, and is engaged in literary work.

Friends of Eric Mackey today expressed the belief that he was insane. They recalled that when he was about 15 years of age, soon after his arrival in Cambridge, he assaulted another boy. About six years ago he shot a Roxbury man connected with the Boston Woven Hose & Rubber Company, because of a fancied grievance. The man was not seriously hurt. Mackey, when brought before the court, was adjudged insane, and in the spring of 1903 was committed to the Worcester Asylum for the Criminal Insane. He escaped from there about a year later and made his way to New York.

Besides his father, his only other relative in this country, so far as is known to friends here, is a sister, who came over from Ireland about four years ago, and who is employed as a nurse at the Anna Jacques Hospital in Newburyport.

Inquiry at the offices of the Boston Woven Hose Company today developed the information that while in the employ of the company Mackey figured in two shooting affairs. The first time, it is said, the shooting occurred in the boarding house where Mackey lived, but no action was taken against him. In 1903 Mackey attempted to discipline some boys who had snowballed him. A passing laundryman took the boys' part, thus incurring Mackey's enmity. Mackey learned that the laundryman lived in Roxbury, and soon afterwards he went to Roxbury waylaid the laundryman and shot him. The wound was not dangerous. He was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to kill, but eminent doctors declared that he was insane, and he was committed to the insane hospital at Worcester.

When Mackey's father was informed of what had happened in New York he was greatly shocked, but did not appear surprised. He refused absolutely to make any statement, and would not discuss his son's career in any way.

The elder Mackey is about 73 years old. He came to Cambridge from Australia in 1895, and although at that time 60 years of age, he took a special course of study at Harvard College.

HAD DELUSIONS IN HOSPITAL.

Mackey's Employers Warned of His Condition After His Escape.

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 9.—At the Worcester State Hospital for Criminal Insane today it was stated that Eric H. B. Mackey, who shot Postmaster Morgan and then killed himself in New York today, was committed to that institution June 8, 1903. He had been on trial in the superior court on the charge of assault with intent to kill, having shot a Roxbury man against whom he believed he had a grievance. While in the hospital Mackey had delusions that he was being persecuted, but he showed no violence.

May 25, 1904, while working with electricians about the buildings, he crawled through a shaft and made his escape. He was traced to New York and the Massachusetts authorities made every endeavor to secure his return to the Worcester hospital, but without success. The firm of Hunt, Hill & Betts, lawyers, by whom Mackey was employed after he went to New York, were notified of his record, but stated that he had shown no signs of insanity, and was considered one of their best clerks. Mackey was adjudged insane at the time of his trial after being examined by Dr. George F. Jelly.

PROBATE COURT.

Will of Miss Blatchford Contains No Public Bequests—Guardian for Mrs. Dennis.

In the probate court this morning the will of Sophia E. Blatchford was proved and letters of administration therewith with the will annexed were granted to Newton Adams of New York, with Clark Burdick as agent in Rhode Island. There are no public bequests in the will, the residuary legatees being Francis Hunter Potter, Philip Barton Key Potter and Alice Key Potter whose interests are to remain in trust until they become 25 years of age.

William E. Dennis, Jr., was appointed guardian of the person of Susan H. Dennis. The petition for appointment of a guardian of the estate was denied, as after hearing authorities cited by counsel on either side the court decided that the appointment of William E. Dennis as conservator of the estate is still in effect and therefore no guardian of the estate is needed.

Permission was granted the receiver of the estate of William R. Dodge to sell real estate. The inventory of the estate of Henry J. Sullivan was allowed and recorded. Letters of administration on the estate of George H. Popple were granted to Lewis L. Simmons, Jr.

The petition for probate of the will of William Crooke was continued to November 16. Exemplified copies of the wills of Harriet A. Apthorp and Ellen S. Mehlner were ordered recorded and the matter of granting letters testamentary on the estates in Rhode Island were continued for further hearing.

ONE SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Several Others Cut and Bruised in Effort to Quell a Disturbance in a Tiverton School.

[illegible] that there was a serious affair at Borden's school in Tiverton, as a result of which John Lubatos, the bartender, is in a hospital in Fall River, with a scalp wound in the back of his head. Mercer Allen was cut in the back and Jose Pirado, Modesto de Fontes and Jose Pirado Modesto de Fontes are in jail being under $1,500 bonds, $1,000 for assault on Lubatos and $500 for assault on Allen. When the cutting took place it appears that Lubatos was trying to quell a disturbance and the affair was carried to the extreme. Modesto de Fontes pleaded not guilty to each charge. A doctor was summoned and took Lubatos, whose condition was considered critical, to a hospital in Fall River and others were called for at the place and were found. Chief of Police Manchester was early on the scene and took the Modestos, who was accused of the cutting by the others who were present. He was brought here yesterday and arraigned before Judge Proctor, and in default of bail was held over to next Friday.

ACROUND NEAR PRUDENCE.

Manchester of Merchants and Miners' Line Strikes Rocks on Southern End During Fog.

In the thick fog this morning Merchants and Miners' line steamer Manchester, bound from Baltimore to Providence, went on the southern end of Prudence Island and seems to be firmly planted on the rocks at that point. When the fog lifted this afternoon the plight of the ship was noted from the naval coaling station and the tug was sent over to the stranded ship, but the little fellow was unable to render any assistance to the large ship. It was suggested that an attempt might be made at high water tonight to haul her off with tugs sent from Providence, but there is an impression that more than this will be necessary to pull the ship off.

NAVY UNIFORM REGULATIONS.

Amendments of the navy uniform regulations have been approved by the Secretary of the Navy. Hereafter ships' crews ashore at home ports will be permitted to go ashore in civilian clothing. They are still prohibited from wearing any but the prescribed uniform on board ship or ashore in foreign ports. A new uniform to be known as "dinner dress" is provided for commissioned officers, except commissioned warrant officers, and for midshipmen. It consists of a mess jacket, white evening dress waistcoat, full dress trousers, shoulder marks, black tie, white cap, white gloves (if appropriate), ribbons of medals and badges. Shoulder marks, which have heretofore been worn only by commissioned officers, are provided for commissioned warrant officers, warrant officers, mates and clerks.

FUNERAL OF MAURICE P. MURPHY.

The funeral of Maurice P. Murphy took place this morning from his late home on Tilley avenue to St. Joseph's Church, where a high mass of requiem was celebrated by Father Maloney, who also read the burial service. The interment was in the family lot in St. Mary's Cemetery. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The bearers were Peter McGann, Michael Tracy, M. Sullivan and Cornelius Sullivan.

The deceased left, besides the three children mentioned previously, two sons by his first wife, one of whom, John H. Murphy of New York, was at the funeral.

THUNDER AND FOG.

There was a variation in the weather Sunday, when it rained and thundered and lightened and made one feel that the seas a was out of joint in some way. The storm was soon over, but it was succeeded by a fog which was almost heavy enough to cut, and which lasted through the night and was still thick this morning. At noon the fog lifted and the sun came out and things once more felt pleasant enough.

BUCKET BRIGADE FORMED.

Part of North Truro Fishing Company's Plant Saved by Hard Work.

NORTH TRURO, Mass., Nov. 9.—Two large fish houses and an ice house belonging to the North Truro Fishing Company together with two dwelling houses, owned and occupied by Thomas Smith and Charles Collins, were destroyed by fire early today, and it was only by the utmost exertion on the part of nearly every male resident of the village that the cold storage plant and the balance of the fishing company's property were saved. The loss is estimated at about $10,000. The plant of the North Truro Fishing Company occupies a bluff near the station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, and overlooks Cape Cod bay. The company does a large business in winter fishing along the bride of Cape Cod.

The fire broke out about 5 o'clock in the No. 2 fish house, from some unknown cause. It soon extended to No. 4 house, and then to the ice house and the two dwelling houses. Help was summoned from Provincetown as well as from Truro, South Truro and Wellfleet, but before assistance arrived more than 100 men assembled, and by forming a bucket brigade saved the cold storage plant of the fish company, valued at $20,000.

There was some insurance on the property, and it is expected that the two fish houses will be rebuilt. Mr. Smith and Mr. Collins estimate their individual losses at $1,000 each.

HARD PRESSED FOR WATER.

Situation in Northwestern Part of Connecticut Has Become Acute.

WINSTED, Conn., Nov. 9.—The water situation in the northwestern part of the state has become acute, and if winter sets in before there have been abundant rains much suffering may result. New Hartford is without a supply of water in case of fire, and the source of Winsted's supply will, at the rate it is now falling, be below the supply pipe in another week. Throughout Litchfield county the farmers are hard pressed for water, and in many cases are compelled to carry it in barrels four or five miles for their stock. Factories dependent on water power entirely are running only a short time each day.

This is the substance of a statement made today by Mrs. Lilley, who has been entertaining a number of personal and political friends over a week-end at an inn here.

NEED OF FURTHER INCREASE.

General Elliott Requests that Marine Corps Personnel Should be Made Greater.

Urgent request that the personnel of the marine corps be further increased is contained in the annual report of Major General G. F. Elliott, commandant, who finds the authorized increase made by Congress at the last session insufficient for the needs of the corps. That increase called for 348 privates, with commissioned and non-commissioned officers. Referring to the need of further increase, the commandant says:

"The above increase, while it naturally somewhat relieves the situation in which the corps finds itself so far as officers and enlisted men are concerned, was but one-half the officers and enlisted men asked and which were deemed absolutely necessary at the time."

In support of this he shows, the percentage of men serving in the United States as 24.3 and that of enlisted men serving outside of the United States 65.7.

Estimates are submitted for improvements of buildings and grounds at Portsmouth, N. H., Newport, New London, Philadelphia, Norfolk, Charleston, S. C.; New Orleans, Bremerton, Honolulu ($135). Cavite and Olongapo, Philippines. An item of $295,500 is submitted for the purchase of 10,000 latest model army rifles. Upon the question of whether the Marine Band is a navy band, the report says:

"Inquiries at headquarters have strengthened the belief that the Marine Band is a distinctive organization and not a navy band, and it is hoped that the attorney general will concur in this view, because of possible injustice to the members of the Marine Band, whose pay is now below what it should be, and was not in any way increased by recent legislation, as was the pay of army and navy bands generally. In fact, every enlisted man of the three branches of the regular service received an increase of pay except the members of the Marine Band."

Recommendation is made for the designation of a vessel of the Dixie or the Panther type as a transport for the exclusive use of the marine corps.

Recruiting has shown a decided increase. During the year 5,234 men enlisted, a monthly average of 441.2-12. The marine corps has been increased up from 8,196, on July 1, 1907, to 8,821 on June 30, 1908, a gain of 718 in one year, 1903, the strength of the corps was 9,372.

Referring to the expectation that the present site of barracks and officers' quarters at the New York Navy Yard will soon be abandoned by order for the extension of the yard, the report says:

"It has previously been urged and it is again reiterated that a site should be selected somewhere in the vicinity of New York, preferably on Long Island, where there should be barracks and quarters sufficient to accommodate not only the force of marines necessary to protect the interests of the New York Navy Yard, but also to collect at said point a sufficient number of men to permit of its being used as a distributing station for the ships of the United States, Atlantic fleet and the other points along the Atlantic coast.

"In accordance with the secretary's instructions the quartermaster of the marine corps has been directed to embody in the estimates for the coming fiscal year the sum of $40,000 for the purchase of a site for this purpose."

The report contains recommendations that a school for instruction of cooks be established, that assistant adjutants and inspectors be authorized to administer oaths and that the marines serving with the Legation guard at Peking, China, be credited with double time, as is given in the Philippines.

OUR NAVY NOT INFERIOR.

of some of the criticism directed by naval officers against certain details of American naval construction, but it will uphold the policy of the department in refusing to make some concessions which on their merits would appear necessary, if only special, instead of general, factors were to be considered. The armor belt line is a case in point; the department will not be required to recognize the fall load as the normal fighting load, or risk the safety of the ship by loading her with too much iron above the water-line.

The important conclusion that may come out of the conference is that American ships have no "vital" defects in construction and that no radical changes will be recommended. In so far as criticism has been based on allegations of this kind it has failed to make good. In minor details, the critics have been found right, and the criticisms will result in some improvements; although some changes have been suggested of which the critics have made no mention.

The most humiliating charge has been that American ships have shown certain important defects from which foreign ships have been free, and that the calculations of American naval architects have been singularly at fault. The testimony of Sir William White, for 20 years chief constructor of the British navy, will be recalled in this connection, and it has gone a long way toward clearing the reputation of American designers.

In the case of the British Dreadnought, which was cited as an example of proper armament, Sir William has explained that whereas at full load American ships are depressed about 27 inches below the nominal flotation line, the Dreadnought under the circumstances was depressed from four to four and a half feet. The Connecticut he considered better protected than the Dreadnought, in showing 15 to 16 feet of seven-inch armor above the water while the Dreadnought's eight-inch armor extended up only four to four and a half feet. Sir William has clearly contradicted the charge that the direct-ammunition hoist is used only in the United States navy and the implication that the interrupted hoist is a recent invention, which American constructors should have adopted, but would not, by his statement that he himself designed the interrupted hoists 20 years ago. The direct-hoist is used, he says, in most of the armored ships of the world, and it is inferior to the two-stage hoist, only in point of speed, not of safety.

The backbone of the contention of the naval architects who have been under fire has been that their first consideration always must be the stability of the vessel; and in refusing to recommend the elevation of armor belts, freeboards and batteries, the conference evidently has concluded that this contention is sound.

THREE LEADERS DEMOCRATS.

Rest of Indiana State Ticket Republican; Taft's Plurality 10,000.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 9.—The Indianapolis Star last night totalled the official returns as received from all the counties of the state by the secretary of state. These figures show the election of Thomas R. Marshall, Democrat, for governor; Frank J. Hall, Democrat, for Lieutenant Governor, and Walter M. Lotz, Democrat, for attorney general. The rest of the Republican ticket was successful, according to the Star's figures.

The vote on the national ticket has not been totalled, but that it shows a plurality of about 10,000 for William H. Taft for President is conceded.

MISSOURI DEMOCRATS WIN.

Official Count Necessary to Determine Lieutenant Governorship.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 9.—Complete returns in the Republic from every county in Missouri for three give the Democratic candidates for minor state offices, with the exception of lieutenant governor, majorities large enough to win. Jacob G. Michel, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, has a lead of 42 votes and an official count will be necessary to determine who is elected to that office. Complete returns to the Republic give Taft a plurality of 1,818.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Surprising Growth and Magnitude of Automobile Industry.

Largest Club in World—Most Nervous City—Famous Tree—Court to Decide Question.

[Correspondence of the News.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Interesting statistics have just been collected here showing the surprising growth and magnitude of the automobile industry in this country. The present capital invested in this business is $24,000,000 with $5,000,000 more invested in kindred trades and in garages and retail salesrooms, making a total of $187,000,000 in business practically unknown 10 years ago. More than 58,000 persons are employed in automobile factories throughout the country; 29,000 more directly or indirectly in making the material, and another 21,500 in garages and salesrooms, making a total of more than 100,000 employes.

Taxed on the regular basis this industry therefore is the support of more than a million persons. There are now half a hundred makes of automobiles in the United States of which at least 125 have passed the experimental stage. The output for last year was about 52,000, the largest in the history of the industry, which up to date has turned out altogether nearly 200,000 cars. Careful estimates for the coming year place the output at 75,000, of which four factories will make about half and one alone 15,000 automobiles. During the history of this industry $58,000,000 worth of foreign cars have been imported, but North America is exporting far more than she imports. Eight years ago the sale of American cars totalled less than $10,000,000; last year they were worth $105,000,000. Perhaps the most significant feature of the whole development of this infant industry is the fact that the great majority of the cars now manufactured sell for $1,000 or less, showing that the automobile, at first only the toy of the wealthy, is fast becoming an accepted means of transportation among all classes.

The biggest club in the world has just been organized here. Its bigness consists, however, not in the number of its members but in their size, the organization being known as the Fat Men's Club of New York. The first requirement for membership is a weight of 300 pounds and in the first year of its life 40 officers elected from a total weight of 3,435 pounds, or an average of 86 pounds per officer. For obvious reasons the club has taken ground-floor quarters. Although it is not a Trust, the first by-law states that the object of the club is "to further the development of corporations." In addition to a weight of 300 pounds requirements for membership are a waist measurement of at least 46 inches. This of course is the minimum and the by-laws adopted at the first meeting indicate the advantages of further acquaintance. It is provided that any man of good appetite who weighs 450 pounds is eligible for honorary membership while anyone weighing over 500 pounds is eligible to life membership and will be entitled to cast one of two-thirds votes. The by-laws also provide that any member losing 10 pounds in weight shall be suspended until he recovers it. These by-laws can be changed either by a two-thirds vote of members or by a vote of two-thirds of the weight of the club irrespective of members. For the latter contingency a pair of hay scales has been provided. The president of this club is a light weight of only 350 pounds. The sergeant-at-arms weighs 510 pounds.

According to experts on nerve diseases, New York is the nervous centre of the country. Certain investigators who have interested themselves in the question of the amount of nervous energy expended in various cities of the United States, have compiled a table which places New York first in an alarming manner. According to the table this city leads all other cities to a surprising extent, also for each 100 units of nervous energy expended in New York, other municipalities rank in the following order: Chicago 81 units, Pittsburg 80 units, Philadelphia 64 units, San Francisco 63 units, St. Louis 49 units, and New Orleans 41 units. Of course there are various other intermediary cities but New York is so far ahead of the rest that the conservation of its nervous energy has become a major problem, especially in view of the doubt as to whether New York gets a proportionately greater return for its nervous expenditure as compared to other cities. Various solutions looking to a more quiet life have been suggested.

The Rev. Dr. Aked, Rockefeller's pastor, in an article for Appleton's Magazine, suggests more faithful church attendance. "The Americans work hardest," says he, "are those who attend church least." Inversely, he says, New York must be the most godly as well as the rustiest city in the world. Aside from this, however, he asserts that if the city does not bow in its nervous extravagance its municipal supremacy will be a thing of the past.

One of the last vestiges of British rule in New York, once the Tory city of the country, before it became the United States, has just disappeared. The oak known as the "Prince of Wales Tree," which has stood in Central Park for nearly half a century, has just been cut down. Curiously enough the axe which brought it down was held by a loyal Irishman. The "Prince of Wales Tree" or "King's Oak" was sometimes called, was a living monument to the alliance celebrated between England and America at the time of its planting.

During the visit of the then Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII, in 1860, when he travelled incognito as Baron Renfrew, an oak was set out at the suggestion of Mr. Richard Connolly, then controller of the city, and a band was present to observe a future generation with an ordinary oak tree, in which the tree was then. When the prince visited "Baron Renfrew" by an American flag now in spite of the agricultural interests to the contrary still flourishing in the branches of the tree, preserved and protected.

The question, which eventually went to the Supreme Court, as to whether it should be classed as a tree, promises to pale into insignificance when compared to the troubling local customs officials causing epicures to be deprived of a delicacy. The point of argument whether under the tariff law, which is a prohibitive one, the sturgeon, a species of fish. Fish enters this country under a high duty; caviar, as fish eggs, free from duty. The contention of the custom appraisers is that the eggs of fish from which fish are hatched are naturally fish, and therefore dutiable as such. On the other hand the importers insist that fishes' eggs are no more fish than hen's eggs are poultry. They hold that an egg which can never hatch into a fish, as in the case of caviar, cannot possibly be a fish, any more than a hard boiled hen's egg could be a chicken. This difficult question which is now on its way to the Supreme Court will eventually evoke an answer just about as complicated as the solution of the famous question as to which came first, the egg or the chicken.

Longacre.

SUPERIOR BROADSIDE FIRE.

New Battleship North Dakota Can Use All Her Twelve-Inch Guns on Either Hand.

The latest vessels of foreign design with which the North Dakota, which is to be launched Tuesday at Quincy, Mass., may be compared are the Vanguard in England, the Satsuma and the Aki in Japan, the new Sachsen in Germany and the Improved Danton of the French service.

The great point of superiority of the North Dakota over all preceding designs is the ability to use all of its big guns—12-inch—on either broadside, added to which fact it is possible to have a forward fire from two turrets with four guns, and a similar condition astern. This affords a concentration of effect which is most valuable in a military way. The idea has been copied by the Armstrongs in England, at whose plant are being built three 20,000-ton ships for the Brazilian navy. The English Admiralty, however, has not been so prompt to adopt this arrangement of battle.

The armor protection of the North Dakota is heavier at the waterline than in the Dreadnought type and extends upward to cover a much greater portion of the area of the ship's side. The Curtis turbine, with which the North Dakota is equipped, is considered a better motive power than the Parsons turbine, used on the English ships. Taking the Improved Danton, of the French navy, as a basis, the Japanese Aki has 11 per cent greater broadside fire, the Dreadnought vessels of the English navy 10 per cent greater and the North Dakota 85 per cent.

A German authority who has given much study to the subject of relative merits of battleships of recent design has established a system of calculation, and his conclusions are received with much respect among naval experts. He estimates that, with the North Dakota possessing a value of 100, the American ships South Carolina and Michigan have a mark of 85 and the English Dreadnought of 78. In this comparison certain values were assigned to the defensive powers.

The North Dakota's displacement is 20,000 tons; length, 510 feet; width, 85 feet; draft, 27 feet; horsepower, 25,000; speed, 21 knots.

HIGH PRICES FOR PIPES.

Cost from $25 to $200. While Those Generally Used Are of Bamboo, the Older the Better.

[Washington Post.]

An opium smoking layout consists of about a dozen distinct articles, although only half of them are absolutely necessary for smoking, and in case of emergency a person could get along with four—pipe, bowl, lamp and yenhock. Of these pipe is first in importance.

Opium pipes vary in size, price, color, materials, quality and beauty. Those of the better grade are made of ivory, are used only by well-to-do smokers and cost anywhere from $25 to $200. The pipes generally used are made entirely from bamboo, and cost anywhere from $1 to $50. These prices relate to old pipes, second hand.

A new bamboo pipe, which no one cares to smoke until it has been thoroughly seasoned, costs several dollars. Is of a light brown or yellowish tint, and resembles a piece of fishing pole in appearance. Only after continuous smoking for perhaps several years will it begin to develop that rich, glossy, brown color similar to a meerschaum tobacco pipe—a color so much desired by smokers. In fact, there is really more difference between a good opium pipe and a poor one than there is between a high grade French briar tobacco pipe and a Missouri corncob.

The average opium pipe is 18 or 20 inches in length, although they often come as long as two feet and as short as 12 inches. They also vary in circumference. Some are an inch, others are two inches in diameter. Even on the commonest kind there is usually an ivory mouthpiece an inch or so in length. From the mouthpiece to the saddle is the body of the pipe proper. The saddle is that part which holds the bowl in place, and is generally situated about half way between the centre of the stem and the end. On the ordinary pipes the saddles are in tin or brass; on the finer ones they are of silver, and even gold is sometimes used.

Immediately behind the saddle is a fantastically formed knob of from a half inch to several inches in height that is an outgrowth of the wood, and is termed the nut or hoodoo. A well shaped and nicely polished hoodoo is highly appreciated and valued by smokers, both Caucasian and Mongolian. Superstition forbids the latter from ever smoking a stem that has no hoodoo on it; in fact, all opium pipes minus these queer knobs are regarded as being fit only for foreigners.

Sometimes the Chinese make artificial hoodoos of sealing wax or clay, placing them on heathen pipes and palming the counterfeits off on unsophisticated foreigners for a good price. Opium pipes pass for collateral security in nearly all the pawnshops in the larger cities, but if one were to try either to pawn or sell a stem that had no hoodoo on it he would be sure to experience difficulty.

There is only one way of testing an opium pipe without smoking it, and that is to feel its weight. Pipes of quality and value are invariably heavy from continuous smoking; those that haven't been smoked much are light, both in weight and color. The longer an opium pipe has been used the better it is. Of course, a great deal depends also on the quality of the opium smoked and on the care of the stem in general.

Often a smoker on getting a new pipe will place it in the care of some Chinaman running an opium joint patronized by a large number of smokers, with the object of having it used as much as possible for a period of six months or a year, paying the keeper so much for the privilege. This is the only known method of having a pipe broken in quickly.

In addition to the manufacturing of hoodoos clever Chinamen also have ways of their own for decorating opium pipes so as to give them an appearance of age. Not all of the opium pipes in use in this country are made of bamboo, by any means. In a search of the pawnshops of large cities like New York, Chicago and Philadelphia one will find stems made from so many different kinds of wood that he will probably not even know the names of them all.

Northampton Bank Wrecker Breathes Free Air After Nine Years.

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—By breathing the air of freedom for the first time in nine years, Lewis E. Warner walked briskly out from the state prison at Charlestown shortly before 9 o'clock this morning, having completed his penalty for wrecking the Hampshire County National and the Hampshire County Savings Bank in Northampton, Mass., nearly ten years ago. The charge was the misapplication of $240,000. Speculation caused Warner's downfall. Warner left the prison entirely alone and, dodging a dozen newspaper men and photographers, leaped into a carriage and was driven to the South Station, where he took the train for Springfield and Northampton.

Despite his nine years behind prison walls, the former bank official appeared in excellent health and spirits. He was attired in a black suit and a black hat, and his prison pallor was hidden behind a neatly trimmed beard and mustache, both of which had become gray since he entered Charlestown. He was given the customary $5, in addition to a sum of money which his daughter had sent him several days ago.

Warner, up to the time of his downfall, ten years ago, was one of the leading citizens of Northampton and, besides being president of the National Bank and treasurer of the savings institution, was interested in several industries in Northampton, which also suffered from his mismanagement. In addition to his financial interests, he was identified with a number of religious institutions, and was at one time a member of the city government of Northampton, chief of the fire department and made an unsuccessful effort to be elected state treasurer on the Democratic ticket. As the direct result of Warner's ability to hide his shortage in the funds of the two institutions by transferring securities from one bank to another the legislature passed a law forbidding national and savings banks to have adjoining offices.

Warner was 60 years of age when he received his sentence, but he did not look 69 when released.

WOMEN ADEPT SMUGGLERS.

Many Fail to Pay Duty on All Their Purchases.

Ingenious Devices Thought of for Evading Customs Duties on Foreign Finery.

[Providence Sunday Tribune]

Does anyone think smuggling a sin? Very few, probably. On the contrary, it is rather regarded as a virtue. Among those wealthy women who sail twice yearly for the sunny shores of France and the "bargain" shops of Paris, the majority," said a well-known social leader, "fail to pay duty on all their purchases. As to conscience in the matter, there is none even among the best of women. They have called 'duty' as outlined by the customs law, with politics, and they never can understand why politicians should make them pay all over again for jewels or frocks that they, good Americans, already own, and have paid for with their good American money.

Go to any tea where a number of women recently returned from abroad are gathered together," says this authority, "and you will be vastly enlightened as to the methods by which these fair smugglers have brought in things which the United States should have had revenue from. One will confide how she removes the label from each frock and deliberately walks a bit without holding up the trailing hem, adding: "My jewel of a Marie can get out all those little smudges in 10 minutes." Another will confess how she deliberately spilled some coffee on lace ruffles, and made a stain or two of harmless egg on some love of a matinee, saying: "The $2 I hand out for the cleaner is a joke, for otherwise I would have had to pay out at least $50." All these and other remarks pass freely between the women whose positions are most envied and whose lives save for this craze for cheating the government at every opportunity, are most honorable.

To watch the trunks of some rich women being unpacked is a revelation as to how dutiable articles can be concealed, for even between the thickly folded tissue papers that are between the pleats of the frocks, or in the masses of paper that are crushed and put in the sleeves, bits of lace, some single flower motif or point or some other filmy, weightless thing will be concealed.

For some reason or other the customs officials do not seem as keen in their searching or as frequent in their discoveries of lace and embroideries as in their jewel seizure. Every one is familiar with the holding up of a pearl necklace that Miss Dallas of Philadelphia attempted to bring through, and with the late W. B. Leed's pearl necklace, which is not a settled case even yet. In the latter case, however, the necklace was bought with the understanding that the duty was included in the price and after the first seizure and return a second attempt was made to bring the pearls through unstrung. This procedure was declared fraudulent by the officials, as they were brought in originally as a made ornament.

It has been only a few weeks since a passenger was 'detained,' and after a brief examination had to pay a good round sum in duty for the very gown on her back, which was obviously new and was hallmarked with the label of a French house whence come the most costly dresses to be had. She did not follow the example of the wary who stand a chance of running through a new frock without detection by removing the label and either bringing the dress in untagged or tagged with the name of a New York maker. But if the fair smuggler uses the latest subterfuge, she takes the precaution to have the gown packed so that it will appear slightly rumpled on its arrival.

Rings, pins and watches are most easily brought in, and especially nowadays, when women wear a number of rings from morning till night, and also adjust many parts of their gowns with pins of value. A watch is different, but a thing easily smuggled, for the toe of a boot, the lining of a hat or the back dexteries of a skirt make nestling places where one may be secured. Necklaces and flexible chain bracelets are generally dropped into a pocket of the coat to be worn when going off the steamer, and unless they are jewels of great value, the mere purchase of which has raised comment abroad in the market for precious stones and in the newspapers, nine times out of 10 they come through without suspicion if the dejected one is calm in her bearing. The majority, however, by some trick of eye or twitch of hand betray themselves from nervousness. Hollow heel-trees are used by some dames of high degree, and most successful have they been. Many a pearl necklace has arrived unstrung in a medicine case, one-half of the pearls dyed pink and the other black, with harmless coloring matter in the coatings of wax. Still others have been worn as corsets, thanks to a skillful manipulation of the same coating, and have come through safely.

In the days of crinoline bustles were made the carrying place for all valuables to be brought through unseen, and now the pompadour serves a like purpose. An elaborate head dress cut and has accommodated many unsuspected goods successfully, although the records show many accounts of amusing discoveries in the coiffure of rings and pins that hair pins had made secure beneath a puff or braid which to the uninitiated eye looked perfectly innocent.

More than is made the unwilling through gallant modesty by which many smuggled goods escape for fashionable adornment are brought ashore, and many are selected for this purpose the moment they are sighted at the first gathering in the dining salon of the steamer. It is an easy matter for a handsome woman to meet any man she chooses to approach for any purpose, and by the time the trip is nearly over he will feel that the very least he can do is to take some small extra package ashore for her, so flattered is he by her patronage. He has hopes, too, of gaining the citizen to the good city not to which she belongs she may never visit the city in which she lives, for it is not the native born society of New York who allows himself to be used in this way unless he is a friend of many years standing. After all, he is most dear to women's heart, and this she shows by letting his neckties, patterns frills and under garments go in little soft rolls. The big, rough, hairy-looking gentlemen are generally the ones to be chosen for such favors, for they look as if they would do it for the asking.

"Women understand the psychology of men, that men like to be imposed upon, that they like to be considered as the strong men, the men of money, and of other things that are valuable, and that they will forgive the woman who will impose upon them a little, if that little be done in a way that will appeal to them. Women understand that men like to be coaxed, and that they will do almost anything for a woman who will coax them, and that they will do almost anything for a woman who will let them think they are doing her a great favor. Women understand that men like to be deceived, that they bring over with their model gowns, such spring and autumn, and of course, they furnish the revenue therefrom to the prices charged for their wares. Men who try to run the country don't know enough, and have not the money to pay the duties, have to see their lovely things sold at auction.

"Of course, there is a systematic business of smuggling that is always under espionage, and travelers in both cabins and the steerage are closely watched, every article in their possession being gone over. Large hauls of dutiable goods are made. One of the most finds was made up of silks, lace, embroidered articles and jewelry, sewed up in mattresses that a party of Neapolitans were bringing out, claiming they were going to organize a boarding house out west. Another famous smuggler always took the same stateroom and had a secret compartment, in which he would leave the costly gems secreted from one voyage to another, then when his wife came to bid him farewell he would calmly go in the drawer, hand her the jewels and she would bring them to land before the last bells rang."

CHAPMAN'S FOREIGN EVANGELISTIC TOUR.

Announcement was made at a meeting of the evangelistic committee of the Presbyterian General Assembly, just held in New York, that the committee's secretary and evangelistic leader, Rev. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman, is soon to head a party of evangelists which will hold meetings in foreign lands. This will be the first time that the Presbyterian evangelistic forces have undertaken effort outside of America. Dr. Chapman and his party, which will include Mr. Charles M. Alexander, the singer, will leave in April for Australia. They are to hold meetings during the five months in the principal centres of Australia and New Zealand. On their way back to America they will stop at a number of foreign mission centres, including Canton, Pekin and Shanghai, China; Tokio and Yokohama, Japan; Seoul, Korea, and Manila. The party will return to America by Christmas 1909.

MARYLAND'S SPLIT VOTE.

[New York Tribune.]

Maryland will again split its electoral vote, casting two ballots for Taft and six for Bryan. The curious thing about the result is that the majority party in the state gets only one-quarter of the electoral vote, just as in 1904 it got only one-eighth. Except in those two instances no state has ever split its vote so that the losers have been credited with a substantial victory.

As a rule splits have resulted from the leading elector on the defeated ticket getting a small plurality over the elector on the winning ticket polling the smallest vote. In 1892 four states chose mixed electoral colleges. California named 1 Harrison and 8 Cleveland electors, Oregon 1 Weaver and 3 Harrison electors, Ohio 1 Cleveland and 22 Harrison electors and North Dakota 1 Harrison, 1 Cleveland and 1 Weaver elector. California has twice divided its vote for President. In 1880 it gave Garfield 1 elector and Hancock 5. In 1884 it gave Bryan 1 and McKinley 8. In 1896 Kentucky gave Bryan 1 vote and McKinley 12. But in all these cases except North Dakota's, in 1892, the minority party got an accidental minority representation. Twice in Maryland it has got the major share of the electors.

POTTER INTEREST IN BLATCHFORD ESTATE ATTACHED.

Frederick S. Wilcox of Aiken, S. C., through a Newport lawyer has placed an attachment on the interest of Francis H. Potter in the estate of the late Miss Sophia E. Blatchford, who died here last month. Mr. Wilcox's claim, amounting to $100, against Mr. Potter is said to be for board and supplies while he was in Aiken, between January and March 1904. Mr. Potter was for some time attached to the United States legation at Lisbon and is at present in London.

PUBLIC LAWS, PASSED AT THE JANUARY SESSION, 1903

[The Chapters of the Public Laws are numbered continuously from the General Laws, Revision of 1896.]

CHAPTER 1590.

Sec. 12. No bank or trust company shall make any loan to its president, its vice-president, its cashier, or to any of its directors or any of its clerks, tellers, bookkeepers, agents, servants, or other persons in its employ, until the proposition to make such a loan, stating the amount, terms, and security, if any, offered therefor, shall have been submitted in writing, by the person desiring the same, to a meeting of the board of directors of such bank, or of the executive or finance committee of such board, if any, and accepted and approved by the vote of a majority of those present constituting a quorum; no bank shall permit its president, its vice-president, its cashier, or any of its directors, clerks, tellers, bookkeepers, agents, servants, or other persons in its employ, to become liable to it by reason of overdrawn account; any president, vice-president, director, cashier, teller, clerk, or agent of any bank or trust company who knowingly violates this section, or who aids or abets any officer, clerk, or agent in any such violation, shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by a fine of not more than one thousand dollars or by imprisonment for not more than five years, or by both.

Sec. 61. No president, treasurer, member of a board of investment, or officer of any savings bank, charged with the duty of investing its funds, shall borrow or use any portion thereof, be surety for loans to others, or, directly or indirectly, whether acting individually or as trustee for others, be obligor for money borrowed of the corporation; and if such member or officer, either individually or acting as trustee for others, becomes the owner of real estate upon which a mortgage is held by the corporation, his office shall become vacant at the expiration of six months thereafter, unless he has ceased to be the owner thereof or has caused said mortgage to be discharged or assigned. The provisions of this section shall not prevent the deposit of money, as provided in this act, in banks or trust companies of which one or more trustees or officers of such corporation are directors or officers.

Sec. 62. No bank or trust company shall make a loan or discount on the security of the shares of its own capital stock, nor be the purchaser or holder of such shares, unless such security or purchase shall be necessary to prevent loss upon a debt previously contracted in good faith: Provided, however, that whenever a bank shall make a valid loan or discount in good faith upon the general credit of a specific security or collateral of a shareholder, other than the shares in such bank, nothing in this section contained shall be construed to abridge or modify any of the provisions of the charter or by-laws of such bank, as affecting such transaction, giving it a lien upon, or any other right or remedy relating to or affecting, the stock of such shareholder. All stock so purchased or acquired by the bank in good faith as aforesaid shall, within one year after its purchase, be sold or disposed of at public or private sale.

Sec. 63. Every person, not under guardianship, who may make a deposit personally in any bank, savings bank, or trust company, may control, transfer, or withdraw the money so deposited, and the dividends or interest that have accrued or may accrue thereon, notwithstanding such person at the time of exercising such control or of making such transfer or withdrawal may be a minor.

Sec. 64. If a deposit is made with any bank, savings bank, or trust company by one person in trust for another, the name and residence of the person for whom it is made shall be disclosed, and it shall be credited to the depositor as trustee for such person; and if no other notice of the existence and terms of a trust has been given in writing to the corporation, the deposit, with the interest thereon, may, in case of the death of the trustee, be paid to the person for whom such deposit was made or to his legal representative.

Sec. 65. When a deposit has been or shall be made in any bank, savings bank, or trust company in the name of two persons and payable to either or to the survivor, such deposit, or any part thereof, or any interest or dividend thereon, may be paid to either of said persons, whether the other be living or not, and the receipt of the person so paid shall be a valid and sufficient release and discharge on account of the payment so made.

Sec. 66. Any deposit in a savings bank or the savings department of a bank or trust company may be pledged by delivery of the pass-book evidencing such deposit to the pledgee, with an order for its transfer; but no such pledge shall be effective to secure such deposit against any person other than the pledgor, his executor or administrator, unless an actual transfer of said deposit shall have been made upon the books of the savings bank, or a notice for such transfer shall have been disclosed to, and a copy filed with, the savings bank holding such deposit.

Sec. 67. The by-laws of any bank, savings bank, or trust company shall not be altered, amended, or added to except upon approval of the board of bank incorporation. A certified copy of the proposed alteration, amendment, or addition shall be submitted to said board, which shall thereupon endorse thereon its approval or its disapproval thereof, and shall file the same with the bank commissioner, who shall notify said corporation of the action of the said board thereon. If said board disapproves the said alteration, amendment, or addition, no further proceedings shall be had, but the application for approval may be renewed after six months from the date of said refusal. If said board approves said alteration, amendment, or addition, the corporation shall, within six months thereafter, take action thereon, otherwise said approval shall be of no effect.

Sec. 70. Every director of any bank or trust company must, during his whole term of service, own in his own right, free and unpledged, shares of the capital stock of the corporation of which he is a director, to the amount of five hundred dollars of the par value thereof. Any director who ceases to be the owner, as herein provided, of such amount of the capital stock of such corporation, or becomes in any other manner disqualified, shall thereby vacate his place.

Sec. 71. Every director of any bank or trust company, when appointed or elected, shall take an oath that he will, so far as the duty devolves on him, diligently and honestly administer the affairs of such corporation, and will not knowingly violate, or wilfully permit to be violated, any of the provisions of this act or any addition thereto or amendment thereof, and that he is the owner in good faith, and in his own right, of the number of shares of stock required by this act, subscribed by him or standing in his name on the books of the corporation, and that the same is not hypothecated, or in any way pledged as security for any loan or debt. Such oath, subscribed by the director making it, and certified by the officer before whom it is taken, shall be filed immediately in the office of the bank commissioner, and shall be filed and preserved in his office.

Sec. 72. No permit of any note, draft, or check shall be made by any notary public who is the president, cashier, director, or officer of any bank, savings bank, or trust company whereon such note, draft, or check is to be placed for collection or is then the owner.

Sec. 73. Every bank, savings bank, and trust company in this state shall cause to be made, in a book kept for that purpose, of all the proceedings of the board of directors or trustees, standing committees thereof, at every meeting thereof, and of the names of all such directors or trustees or members of committees thereof as may be present at any such meeting.

Sec. 74. No savings bank shall be required to pay any deposit with such savings bank until the depositor shall have first given the said bank ninety days previous notice that he intends to require payment of such deposit. No bank or trust company in its savings or participation department shall be required to pay any deposit with such savings or participation department until the depositor shall have first given the said bank or trust company ninety days previous notice that he intends to require payment of such deposit.

Sec. 75. The treasurer of every savings bank and the treasurer of every bank and trust company as to its savings or participation department shall, during the months of July in the year nineteen hundred and eight, and every fifth year thereafter, return to the bank commissioner a sworn statement containing the name, last known place of residence or post-office address, and fact of death, if known to such treasurer, of every depositor who shall not have made a deposit therein or withdrawn therefrom any part of his deposit or any part of the interest thereon, or whose bank-book has not been presented for entry thereon of accrued interest, for a period of twenty years or more next preceding the last business day of June, and shall publish the same, in one or more newspapers published in or nearest to the city or town wherein such institution is located, at least once a week for six weeks in succession: Provided, however, that this section shall not apply to deposits made by or in the name of any person known to the officers of said corporation to be living and of sound mind. The bank commissioner shall incorporate in his report, or in a supplementary report, such returns which shall have been made to him as provided in this section. The treasurer of any corporation neglecting or refusing to make the sworn return and publication required by this section shall be subject to a fine of one hundred dollars for each offence.

Sec. 76. Sec. 77. Any person who shall, with intent to defraud, make or draw or utter or deliver to another person any check, draft, or order on a bank, savings bank, or trust company, knowing at the time of such drawing or delivery that he has not sufficient funds or credit with said bank, savings bank, or trust company to meet said check, draft, or order in full upon its presentation, shall, upon conviction thereof, be fined not less than five hundred dollars or more than five thousand dollars, or imprisoned not less than six months or more than five years, or both such fine and imprisonment. The word "credit" as used herein shall be construed to mean an agreement or understanding with the bank, savings bank, or trust company for payment of such check draft, or order.

Sec. 78. Any person knowingly making a false statement to any bank, savings bank, building association, or trust company respecting the financial condition of any person, firm, or corporation, for the purpose of obtaining a loan from such bank, savings bank, building association, or trust company, whether for his own use or for the use of any other person, firm, or corporation, shall be punished by imprisonment for not less than six months or more than five years. Every person who shall wilfully or maliciously instigate, make, circulate, or transmit to another or others any statement, untrue in fact, derogatory to the financial condition or affecting the solvency or financial standing of any bank, savings bank, or trust company doing business in this state, or who shall counsel, aid, procure, or induce another to start, transmit, or circulate any such statement or rumor, shall, upon conviction thereof, be punished by imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year or by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

FROM CHAUCER TO MILTON.

Historical Pageant Feature of London Lord Mayor's Installation.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The Lord Mayor's show today, celebrating the installation of Sir George Truscott as successor to Sir John Charles Bell, was a more dignified and more interesting spectacle than usual. Of late years the civic pageant had become a mere circus procession.

The principal feature today was the historical pageant organized by Louis N. Parker, an American dramatist. Poets and musicians from Chaucer to Milton, and many of the most notable figures of those times, appeared in the parade, costumed with historical accuracy. Shakespeare was naturally most conspicuous, and was accompanied by a picturesque entourage of characters from his plays. Chaucer, who headed the pageant, was followed by a band of personages of his creation, and Spenser and Marlowe were attended in the manner. A striking feature was William Caxton on a float with a group of printers, working an ancient printing press. These historical pageants will be continued progressively in future shows. Several companies of infantry, in gorgeous uniforms, and a number of bands of music completed the fine spectacle. The weather was perfect, and brought out a great crowd.

TOBACCO BREAKS 32 POINTS.

New York Curb Flooded with Selling Orders Soon After Opening.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. There was a sensational break in American Tobacco stock on the curb market today, following the adverse decision of the United States circuit court Saturday. That decision was announced after the close of the market, when American Tobacco was quoted at 375. Soon after the opening today the curb was flooded with selling orders, and within the first 35 minutes the stock had sold down to 248, a drop of 27 points as compared with Saturday's closing price. During the first hour Tobacco common sold down to 343. The slump in Tobacco shares together with general realizing, caused considerable weakness in stocks early in the day. Later the market rallied on new points of strength.

The inter-stock market showed a subsidence of the acute apprehension manifested early over the scope of the American Tobacco decision. Operations were resumed on the long side of the market, and prices were marked up aggressively here and there. Reading and a group of coalers were among the conspicuous stocks beside the Gould group to sustain the market. Prices fell off again in the late dealings in some cases to near the lowest on selling for profits.

SURRENDERS TO SHERIFF.

H. Clay Pierce Gives $20,000 Bond in Texas Ouster Oil Case.

AUSTIN, Tex., Nov. 9.—With the avowed intention of surrendering himself to Sheriff Matthews of Travis County, H. Clay Pierce, chairman of the Waters-Pierce Oil Company, and H. C. Pierce, his personal attorney, arrived here today. Both will later call on the sheriff and endeavor to arrange a bond.

Mr. Pierce is under indictment charging him with perjury in connection with the hearing of testimony in the ouster proceedings of the state of Texas against the oil company. The trial of Mr. Pierce is set for November 23, and it is generally understood that no trouble will be had in securing bondsmen.

Mr. Pierce appeared to be in excellent humor. Accompanied by his lawyers and a few friends, he arrived at the court house early, and surrendered to Sheriff Matthews. Mr. Pierce gave $20,000 bond for his appearance in court under an indictment charging him with perjury in connection with ouster proceedings brought by the state of Texas against his company. The case originally set for November 23, was continued until the January term of the district court.

WISH CURB BROKERS ENJOINED.

Boston Trustees Consider Shouting and Gesticulating a Nuisance.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Claiming that the shouting and gesticulating of the curb brokers constitute a public nuisance, a bill in equity asking that certain curb brokers be restrained from doing business on Doane street, where the curb market is now located, was filed in the supreme court today by the trustees of a Doane street business building. The petitioners are W. H. Dunbar and Esther L. Hammond, trustees for George S. Fiske. Among the brokers mentioned in the petition are Frederick S. Bryant and Richard J. Burton of Boston, and J. Thomas Reinhardt of New York.

In their petition the Fiske trustees state that Doane street is a very narrow thoroughfare, and that as a result of the shouting and gesticulation of the curb brokers the tenants of the Fiske building, which is situated on the street, are vacating. The petitioners ask that the brokers be enjoined temporarily until a permanent injunction is granted.

BOSTON CARS COLLIDE IN FOG.

Several Persons Injured; Vestibule Smashed and Other Damage.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Several persons were injured and others more or less shaken up when two electric cars of the Boston & Northern street railway collided head on at Copeland's Corner, near the boundary line between Malden and Revere. One of the cars was bound from Saugus for Boston, and the other was going from Boston to Clifftondale. A thick fog prevailed at the time, and the motormen could see hardly a dozen feet in front of them. The cars came together with such force that the vestibule on the Boston-bound car was smashed and the iron box containing the controller was thrown into the interior of the car. All the glass was broken in the cars.

ROOSEVELT'S LABOR DINNER.

Gompers, Morrison, O'Connell and Lennon Are Not Invited.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. President Roosevelt has issued invitations for a "notable labor legislatory" dinner to be held at the White House Tuesday, November 17. The guests will include [illegible] labor organizations [illegible] prominent members and executive officers of the [illegible] Federation of Labor, Secretary Morrison, Vice President Gompers and President Lennon of the American Federation of Labor. [illegible] will be invited.

WILL GOMPERS BE OUSTED?

Labor Federation Opposition Believed to Effect Localities Only.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 9.—The attitude [illegible] of labor [illegible] about to cast [illegible] from the presidency of the American Federation of Labor during the session of the twenty-eighth annual convention, which begins in this city today, is [illegible] primarily gossip outside the Federation circles. Rumors of growing dissatisfaction with the so-called Gompers plan during the recent national campaign are given free publicity through the press, but leaders in the Federation who should know the status of affairs declare their ignorance of any organized opposition to Gompers. Mr. Gompers himself says the Federation will select the best man equipped to lead it and declare that should he be chosen he will become a worker in the ranks. He admits that there is opposition to him, but asserts that it is confined to matters of policy, affecting localities only.

A strong card in Mr. Gompers' favor now is the fact that several of his bitter opponents of socialistic tendencies have failed of election as delegates to represent their own unions at the meeting. The annual report of President Gompers, which deals at considerable length with his so-called political stand as well as other important matters affecting the Federation, will be read tomorrow.

The cities seeking the next convention are St. Louis, Toronto, Detroit, Mobile, Tampa and Washington.

BOSTON BROKERS ASSIGN.

Burnham, Bennett & Co Members of Stock Exchange Since 1901.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The assignment of Burnham, Bennett & Co., members of the Boston Stock Exchange, was announced at the opening of the board today. The assignment was made to Guy W. Cox of the law firm of Bates, Cox, Mitchie & Brown.

Burnham, Bennett & Co. have been members of the Boston Stock Exchange since 1901. The firm is composed of Charles H. Burnham, Jr., the board member; John E. Gilchrist and Joshua G. Bennett. The offices of the firm are in the Board of Trade building. At the time of the announcement of the assignment no statement of the firm's liabilities was made.

Burnham, Bennett & Co. have no membership in the New York exchange, but have connections in that city.

CONCERNING TARIFF REVISION.

House Committee on Ways and Means to Meet Tuesday.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The committee on ways and means of the House of Representatives, which tomorrow will hold its first hearing on the proposed revision of the tariff, will direct its efforts at these hearings toward the securing of information which chiefly concerns the cost of production in this country and the manufacturing conditions here as compared with foreign countries, information regarding which has been obtained through the Departments of State and Commerce and Labor. Changes in the reading of certain paragraphs of the present law to conform with decisions of the courts and of the board of appraisers, will also require attention, as will the proposition to arrange the new tariff schedule with maximum and minimum rates of duty, similar to the existing tariffs of France, Germany and Russia.

As Mr. Taft, Speaker Cannon and a majority of the ways and means committee favor a protective policy in the framing of the new tariff, it is hardly likely that the free list will be materially increased, or that any very essential reductions will be made in the tariff on manufactured goods.

FOURTH TIME IN FOUR MONTHS.

Episcopal Diocese of Washington to Meet to Elect a Bishop.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The episcopal diocese of Washington will meet Tuesday for the fourth time within the last four months to elect a bishop. The office, made vacant by the death of Bishop Satterlee, was twice declined by Bishop Charles H. Brent of the Philippines, and once was refused by Dr. Alexander Mann of Boston. Among the candidates mentioned for the episcopic are Dr. Charles H. Grosvenor of New York, Rt. Rev. Sheldon M. Griswold, bishop of Salina, Kan.; Dr. Charles L. Slattery of Springfield, Mass.; Dr. James F. Winchester of Memphis, Tenn.; Dr. Randolph H. McKim, Rev. Alfred Harding, Rev. C. Ernest Smith and Rev. R. H. Williams of this city.

AVERAGE CORN YIELD 25.2.

Agricultural Department Reports 2,642,687,000 Bushels Produced.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—An average yield of 25.2 bushels of corn an acre and an indicated total production of 2,642,687,000 bushels of corn are preliminary estimates announced in the report of the Department of Agriculture issued today, summarizing corn and five other crops. The yield of corn per acre in 1907 was 25.9 as finally estimated, an average of 25.6 for ten years, while the production is compared with 2,592,320,000 bushels finally estimated in 1907. Quality of corn is 86.9 per cent, compared with 82.8 in 1907 and 85.3 the ten-year average. About 27 per cent, or 71,124,000 bushels, is estimated to have been in farmers' hands November 1, against 30 per cent, or 130,995,000 bushels, a year ago, and a 10-year average of 15 per cent.

THE SHELL EXPLODED.

Ordnance Sergeant Linder of Fort Adams Escapes Serious Injury While at Work on It.

Ordnance Sergeant Linder of Fort Adams had a close escape from death this morning, while working in his armory. He had a six-inch shell in a vise and was working on it, when the shell burst and was separated into small particles. The largest was the pointed end of the projectile, and would only weigh a few ounces. The sergeant had his hands cut some, though comparatively speaking the injuries were little more than scratches. His blouse was torned and torn, but this was only surface injury. There is a hole in the floor, and about the room are suggestions that the place had been used as a wrecking and vaulting, but how the sergeant came out of it as he did when the shell was [illegible] is not explained.

Just what the sergeant was doing with the shell has not been made public, but that the thing occurred could not be kept a secret. It is presumed that he was in the act of drawing the charge, for some reason, and that a little friction in some way fired the explosive. The object of these shells is to deliver plows in the face of an enemy, and then scatter destruction about. Purposely one who is ignorant of such the things would not remain anywhere around much less in the same room, if there was any suspicion that it was about to explode.

THE "UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" BAND.

The "Uncle Tom's Cabin" company which plays here Saturday had some [illegible] band which made [illegible] music. It played in [illegible] with excellent quality [illegible] the good efforts of [illegible] production, and the proper [illegible] of [illegible] "Gypsy," etc. [illegible] work it was a thoroughly good band. But the wonder is that there are not more of it in the whole land. And yet it is an actual fact that it is [illegible] satisfactory home to listen. It is much better than many a one of 50 "pieces".

PROVIDENCE FUR ROBBERY.

Unique Features Connected with the Stealing of Valuable Skins.

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 9.—Over $6,000 worth of valuable skins and furs, one half of the stock of Kaps & Reinecke, 135 Mathewson street, in the centre of the business district, were stolen from the store some time between midnight Saturday and 8 o'clock this morning. More than unusual interest is lent to the case because of the unique features. During the whole time the store was lighted by four gas jets, the skins taken must have weighed over 200 pounds, a police officer was on duty in front of the store during the whole time, and an experienced selection of the furs was made by the robbers.

The police believe the case to be the work of professionals. The burglar alarm was escaped by removing a plate of glass, and the goods were evidently carried through a blind alley in the rear, over the tops of several sheds, to a waiting automobile.

TIED, WITH 17 SEATS EACH.

Control of Newfoundland Legislature in Doubt; Two Reports Not in.

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Nov. 9.—With only two seats to be heard from, last Monday's election in Newfoundland for members of the colonial legislature has resulted in a tie between the premier, Sir Robert Bond, and the opposition, headed by Sir Edward Morris, for control of the body. The latest seat to send in returns, which arrived today, was Burgeo, which elected a Morris adherent by a majority of 224 votes. This gives 17 seats each to the government and the opposition.

COULSEN CASE DISMISSED.

Supreme Court's Reason for Action Want of Jurisdiction.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9. The case of Adolphus Coulsen, under sentence of death in the Panama canal zone, the penalty having been inflicted in a trial without a jury, was dismissed for want of jurisdiction by the Supreme Court of the United States today. Coulsen raised the point that the zone is American territory, and tried in a capital case without a jury is unconstitutional.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9. Wall Street—The stock market opened irregular, with Amalgamated Copper at 56½, American Smelting 98⅝, American Locomotive 59, Amerada 51⅞, Atchison 91⅜, Baltimore & Ohio 105¼, Brooklyn Transit 75⅜, Canadian Pacific 159½, Chesapeake & Ohio 56⅞, Erie 35⅞, Great Northern preferred 126⅞, Great Northern Ore 72, Missouri Pacific 60¼, Missouri, Kansas & Texas 32⅞, National Lead 58⅞, New York Central 116½, Northern Pacific 151⅛, Pennsylvania 129½, Reading 137⅞, Rock Island 29⅞, St. Paul 147⅜, Sugar 136, Southern Pacific 112, Southern Railway 24⅞, Union Pacific 173⅞, United States Steel 35 and 34⅞, United States Steel preferred 112⅞, and Wabash 11.

II—The lower prices for Americans set from London before the opening here gave warning of a realizing movement, which was manifest when the New York market opened. Mixed price changes were the result, stocks which have been the most active speculative favorites starting lower and offers continuing last week's advance. Amalgamated Copper and Virginia Carolina Chemical declined 1½, and Northern Pacific and Amerada 1¼. Utah Copper rose 2½, and New York Central, Pressed Steel Car, Consolidated Gas, Railway Steel Springs and Distillers large fractions.

II—Bidding up of a number of minor stocks marked an effort to sustain the list for a time, but the heavy realizing in the active stocks ultimately dragged down the whole list. Great Northern preferred and Issouri Pacific showed some resistance at times. Losses ranging from 1 to 1½ were registered in a number of important stocks. New Haven advanced 3 points, and a number of others a point or more. American Tobacco preferred 4% on the judicial decision against the company in the government's suit.

Noon—Money on call steady, at 1¾ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4 to 4½ per cent. Aggressive bidding up of the Gould stocks was used as a vigorous support of the market, and prices recovered almost completely the earlier losses. The dealings on the rebound continued on a large scale, but began to diminish around the level of Saturday. Bonds were irregular. American Tobacco 6's broke 3% and the 4's 2½.

REV. SAMUEL I. CARR.

Death of a Well Known Clergyman, for Many Years Chaplain of the Newport Asylum.

Rev. Samuel I. Carr died early this morning at his home on Third street, after an illness of a little more than a year. November 3, 1907, he resigned the chaplaincy of the Newport Asylum on account of failing health and had been confined to the house practically a year, with the exception of a short time last summer, when he was able to be out. He was in his seventy-eighth year and death was due to the ailments of age. He had been failing steadily of late and this morning passed quietly away, without an indication that the end was so near.

Mr. Carr was a native of Newport, and a resident practically all his life in the Point section of the city, having been born March 27, 1831, in a house on Bridge street. He was son of John S. and Elizabeth Spooner Carr, his father being a descendant of Governor Caleb Carr, who came to this country from England in 1645. His early education was in the private school of Betsy Hart, and later in the public schools under the late William Child and Elisha (better known as Judge Atkins). Leaving school at the age of 11 he was employed for three years in the cotton mill located on the corner of Poplar and Fourth streets.

He entered the employ of his cousin, George H. Norman, and William H. Cranston, then proprietors of the Newport Daily News and the Herald of the Times, and was for 23 years connected with the printing business in Newport. January 1, 1853, he began his apprenticeship and for several months was employed on various duties connected with a printing office and the news of a newspaper, being one of the two carriers of the Daily News in its early days. After a year he was appointed foreman of the printing office and held that position during the proprietorship of Messrs Cranston and Norman. He continued in the office of the Daily News during the proprietorship of Messrs. Hobart Hammond, Talbot & Davis and Davis & Pitman, during this time having gone to Fall River to set up a press and working there a short time. He was for several years in charge of the job printing department of the News. When Mr Sanborn purchased the News, Mr. Carr went with him and for a number of years was employed as foreman of the job printing department, continuing in that position until the latter part of 1877, when he entered the ministry.

Mr. Carr joined the Central Baptist Church in this city May 25, 1852, under the pastorate of Rev. Henry Jackson, D. D., only two of the 12 who were admitted at that time being still alive. While working at his trade he preached frequently in churches about the state and a number of times at the Newport Asylum, then located at Coasters' Harbor Island. He spoke frequently at the meetings of the Young Men's Christian Association, and from 1864 to 1869 supplied the pulpit of the Shiloh Baptist Church, then without a pastor and worshipping in the Seventh Day Baptist Church on Barney street, now the Historical Society's building. In 1870 he was appointed regular chaplain of the Newport Asylum and continued to fill that position until 1877, when he resigned to accept a call to the pastorate of the Central Baptist Church of Jamestown. He began this ministry December 2, 1877, and was ordained January 29, 1878, remaining at Jamestown four years. During the next ten years he supplied the pulpits of many churches in the city and state, and in 1893 was again appointed chaplain of the Asylum, filling that position continuously until his resignation a year ago.

Mr. Carr married, April 19, 1853, Miss Caroline Williams Stedman, daughter of O. M. C. Stedman of Wakefield, and she and seven children survive him, the children being Mrs. Stephen Underwood and Mrs Edward Peckham of Middletown, Mrs. S. E. Verscheer of Los Angeles, Cal., John S. Carr, Daniel S. Carr, Mrs. George W. Smith and William H. Carr of this city. Two sisters, Miss Sarah Carr and Miss Elizabeth Carr, also survive.

DEATH OF MRS. BURDICK.

Mrs Anna M. Burdick died at her home on Sherman street Saturday evening after a long illness. Her husband Mr John P. Burdick, died many years ago. Mrs. Burdick came from a worthy ancestry, and in her life manifested their characteristics. Naturally quiet and retiring in disposition, she held earnest convictions, to which she was always faithful. Until her health failed she was one of the most constant attendants of the Channing Memorial Church, and one of the most diligent workers in its behalf. Mrs Burdick leaves a daughter, Miss Mary B. Burdick, for many years a teacher in Newport's public schools.

EASY FOR ROGERS.

Wins One-Sided Victory from Central Falls High.

Rovers Defeat the Neck Athletics and Tabs Beat Fort Adams—Other Local Games.

In an uninteresting and one-sided game, the Rogers High School football team defeated the Central Falls High at the Civic League grounds Saturday. Although Rogers greatly outclassed the visitors, it was not because of brilliant playing on their part. Their tackling was ragged, and although some long gains were made the winners sometimes stumbled over themselves or their own men in the open field. Hoar for Rogers played a good game, handling the ball neatly and throwing the forward pass with precision. Leclerc, the lively little quarter back of the visitors, played hard, tackling well and upsetting plays by his swift movements. Rogers scored four touchdowns in the first half, and in the second with substitutes and a general shake-up added two.

The first touchdown came easy. Rooney plunged through the line, Owens circled the right end, Fiddler made a quarterback run of 30 yards, and Hoar was finally sent over the line. Rose kicked the goal. The second was not so easy. Rogers lost the ball in their possession and scored on the road to another score, when Horton captured a forward pass and Central Falls delayed further scoring by punting. The ball finally landed in Rogers's possession on the visitor's 35-yard line. From here Stevens went around the left end for a touchdown but because of a foul on Rogers's part it did not count. This did not make much difference, for a forward pass again enabled Stevens to plant the ball under the posts. Burnham's interference on this play was a feature. Rose again made the goal.

Rogers went near enough by end plays by Owens and Stevens to enable Rose to make another touchdown. Hoar's capture of a forward pass gave Rogers another opportunity for a touchown, which was used by Stevens carrying the ball across. Rooney kicked the goal. The remainder of the half was characterized by ragged playing, in which neither side gained any advantage.

The second half was even more uninteresting. Rogers was held for downs on the start, but regained the ball by Fiddler's seizure of a forward pass. On the next play Freeman advanced 12 yards for a touchdown. Rose, by the help of Freeman's 20-yard run, was pushed over for Rogers's last touchdown. Then the ball was for the most part in Rogers's possession, though they lost it once or twice by fumbling. The line-up and summary:

The Rovers and Neck Athletic teams played an even game yesterday morning, the Rovers winning 11 to 0. The Rovers clearly had the Neck boys in condition and the finer points of the game, but the latter as usual played a straight, fair game and did its best to keep the score down. The Rovers excelled in the forward pass and the on-side kick, but unfortunately the crowd surged on the playing field so that advancing the ball around the ends was impossible for either side. The Rovers lost most by this condition of affairs, but it was not the fault of the Neck team, for the members did everything possible to have the field cleared. The game was delayed 15 minutes at the start to clear the ground some, but after the play began the crowd again surged making any kind of end play impossible.

The teams were evenly matched but the Rovers had the experience. The crowd, however, without any intention of injuring the chances of either side, was so close that good runs for touchdowns started by Dennis and J. West were both swallowed up. In this emergency Hickey, Devlin and Williams were used for line backing and proved equal to the emergency, scoring a touchdown, from which a goal was kicked in the first half, and a touchdown without a goal in the second. Special mention should be made also of the work of Reynolds, Shattell, Crowell and Clancy for the Rovers, and of Maher, Kyle and Keaney for the Neck team. The line-up:

Rovers.	Neck A. A.
Dennis, l. e.	r. e., T. Hickey
Crowell, l. t.	r. t., Johnson
Wogan, Reynolds, l. g.	r. g., Myers
Cranes, c.	c., Parsons

L. Hickey, l. h. b.	r. h. b., S. Murphy
Williams, r. h. b.	r. h. b., Kyle

Score Rovers 11, Neck A. A. 0. Touchdowns—T. Hickey 2. Goal from touchdown—W. West. Officials—J. Sullivan and Stark. Timer—Harvey. Linesmen—Brown and Savery. Time—20 and 15-minute halves.

At Fort Adams the Tabs and Fort Adams teams played a hard game, and after the Tabs won 17 to 0, what was perhaps the hardest game played on the fort this year. The Tabs were a little stronger [illegible] Adams, but the Fort boys were [illegible] Sowle. The non-interference [illegible] Newport, but the [illegible] Adams. The Tabs played [illegible] the forward pass [illegible] which the other could see [illegible] the Tabs were [illegible] the second half [illegible] Tabs. The play [illegible] which the Tabs had [illegible] last game, when the score was [illegible] showed its value, and the absence of wind helped the team in the forward passes and on-side kicks.

The work of Palmer and McCrohan was especially good throughout. Palmer, Finn and the two ends were used in the first half for the offensive work, McCrohan being held for the second half, when he was called on and put up a great exhibition of ground gaining, making an especially fine showing which would compare with any fullback work seen here. On three successive downs he carried the ball over 20 yards for a touchdown. Geary, Stone, Narotney and Simmons did good work in the defense and the two Tabs ends did fine work with the forward pass. The score in the first half was 6-0 and in the second 11-0. The line-up:

Fort Adams	Tabs
Doherty, l. e.	r. e., Sullivan
Willoughby, l. t.	r. t., Hayes
Brown, l. g.	r. g., Lewson

Simmons, l. h. b.	l. h. b., Palmer
Rawson, r. h. b.	r. h. b., Finn

Score—Tabs 17, Fort Adams 0. Touchdowns Palmer 2, McCrohan. Goals from touchdowns—J. Sullivan 2. Officials—Fitzsimmons and McManus. Linesmen—Hickey and Martin. Timer Freeman. Time—20 and 15-minute halves.

At St. George's School Saturday the Middlesex team won from the lords, 4-0, in a game which was evenly played. The visitors outstyled St. George's a trifle and may be said to have won on the merits of the play. In the first half Bollister, for Middlesex, scored the only point, with a fine field goal from placement on the 25 yard line. In the second half Middlesex had advanced the ball well toward St. George's goal and it looked like a touchdown, but at the 5-yard line St. George's held and the scene quickly changed, for they punted out of danger. Nevins, Harrington and Wall did good work for St. George's, while Galligen and Bradley did the best for Middlesex.

The Fort Greble team went to Providence Saturday and played the team of St. Andrew's Chapter on Hope field, the game ending in a tie at 6-6, neither side being able to score. In the first half the ball never was nearer than the 30-yard line of either goal. In the second the St. Andrew's players by trick and fast work seemed to outplay the soldiers and carried the ball to the 5-yard line, but here the strong Greble line held and the chances of a score were over. Brooks, Laughran and Mulgrew were the best for St. Andrew's and Papin was the star for Fort Greble.

The Montgomery team went to Fort Adams Saturday afternoon and lost to the Adams team, 11 to 0. Adams had the strength and more experience, but the Montgomery boys put up a plucky game, and as is their custom a clean game, and deserved credit for holding the heavier team as well as they did.

The newly organized Torpedo Station team went to the Training Station yesterday and lost to the Training Station team, 6-0. This was the first game for the Torpedo Station players and they consider that they did better than they had anticipated in holding the Training Station down to a single score.

BILL OF $700 NOT SUSTAINED.

Rear Admiral Merrell's Expenses Not Sanctioned by Assistant Controller of Treasury.

Expenses of $700, the bill for which has been presented to the bureau of medicine and surgery by Rear Admiral John P. Merrell, U. S. N. (retired), president of the Naval War College, incurred during a trip to a specialist, have not been sustained by a decision of the assistant controller of the treasury. Rear Admiral Merrell had been advised by a medical board to consult a specialist in New York if an operation was necessary for supposed cancer of the throat. The assistant controller of the treasury holds that it does not appear that Rear Admiral Merrell was subject to orders of a superior authority during his leave of two weeks, and was not under orders of medical officers of the navy, and that the expenses incurred were not such as should be paid by the government.

ROOMS TOO SMALL.

Large Gatherings Emphasizes Need of a New Army and Navy Y. M. C. A. Building.

The large gatherings at the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association, especially at the stedials, Bible classes and religious meetings, from week to week, give evidence of how much a new building, with facilities for carrying on the much appreciated work, is needed. Last Saturday evening about 150 enlisted men were crowded into the front rooms enjoying the usual saturday evening program, consisting of songs, music and peanut cracking.

The Home Hour Bible Club held the usual Sunday by the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Methodist Episcopal Church and to say it was good would not begin to do justice to it. The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it and the 54 enlisted men who partook of the home-made cakes emphasized the verity of the old adage. Additional cakes were given by Mr. Howard G. Ward, and several ladies served.

Seventy-six went to the Second Baptist Church in a body and a party of 30 attended the service at the First Baptist, Sunday evening.

A number of enlisted men are to receive the ordinance of baptism at the First Baptist Church next Sunday night and a large number will leave the Army and Navy rooms in a body to see their shipmates admitted to the church.

A new member of the Woman's Auxiliary has donated $25 for the continuance of the apple and peanut socials.

THE FLORIDA'S ENGINES.

Navy Department Asks Bids for Constructing the Battleship's Machinery by Contract.

A momentous question has arisen in the Navy Department and is being discussed with animation in the board of construction, involving the amount of work which will be done at the Brooklyn navy yard on the new battleship Florida. The point has been raised that the machinery for the vessel should be constructed under contract. The proposition is opposed by some of the advisers of the Secretary of the Navy, who believe that under the law the battleship in its entirety—hull, machinery, fittings, and all—should be built by the government at a naval plant. It is maintained, on the other hand, that the machinery may, under the phraseology of the law, be constructed at a private plant under contract, and accordingly the Navy Department has invited bids, not only for the construction of the machinery of the Florida, but also for the installation of that equipment on the ship at Brooklyn when it is sufficiently far advanced to receive the motive power.

Bids are to be opened at the Navy Department for the construction of the Utah, the sister ship of the Florida, which will be built entirely by contract, and at the same time the bids for the machinery of the Florida will be opened. Then it will become necessary for Secretary Metcalf to decide whether the proposals shall be considered. It was a surprise to some of the officials to know that bids had been invited for the Florida's machinery, and the law officers of the department have been called on to inform the Secretary whether the provisions of the naval appropriation act of May 13, authorizing the construction of the two battleships, permit the award of a contract for any part of the Florida, or whether the ship in its entirety must be constructed at the Brooklyn yard.

A PONY COACH.

Made Expressly for A. G. Vanderbilt and a Miniature of His Venture Road Coach.

Mr A. G Vanderbilt is expecting from England a "pony" coach made expressly to exhibit his four miniature hackneys at the National Horse Show. The ponies are Mel. Valley Wonder, Mel. Valley Wonderful, Mel. Valley Wonderful and Mel. Valley Wonderful. They are 11.3 to 12.2 hands, finely matched, and created a sensation wherever exhibited here after their arrival from abroad in August for the Long Branch show. Mr. Vanderbilt bought the four from William Forster of Worcestershire after the London show for a stated price of $20,000 to $25,000. The prefix denotes the ponies were bred at Forster's Mel Valley Farm.

Only four pony coaches have been built by the leading Manhattan specialist in drags, respectively for J. Robert Moore, W. R. H. Martin, C. L. Blair and J. H. Hyde, the latter now owned by Miss May Harriman, but they were for ponies of 13.2 or thereabout and not for such midgets as the Vanderbilt lot. It has been known he intended to show the ponies as a team, and it has been somewhat of a puzzle where Mr. Vanderbilt would procure a suitable four-in-hand vehicle for his little ponies. This has been solved by the coming of a coach from England.

A month ago Mr. Vanderbilt communicated with a London firm stating that he wanted a coach built for these ponies but that it must be completed within a month, so that it might be used in the New York Horse Show November 9. It need hardly be said that this was an order by no means easy to execute, for a coach usually takes at least six or eight weeks to build, the many coats of paint taking a long time to dry. The firm was the builder of the coach in which the team were originally shown by Mr. Forster, and thus they knew exactly what was wanted. They set to work at once and in twenty-eight days they turned out a perfect little coach, which is not only a triumph of the coach builders' art, but to which the work has been in no way skimped.

The new coach is practically a duplicate of the Forster coach, but it is of a different color, being crimson lake and carmine whereas the first coach was yellow—with fittings of real silver. In the hind boot is a collapsed and a fitted glass tray (the bottles being monogrammed affairs of the best English cut glass), and in the fore boot the brakes are protected by a wire arrangement. The footbrake and handbrake can be worked in unison or separately as required, and the footbrake can be shut off if it is not wanted. The weight of the coach is 15½ hundred-weight, including all the fittings, the height to the roof 5 feet 9 inches, and no fewer than twenty-two coats of paint have been laid on. Lastly, all the cushions can be protected on a wet day by waterproof covers which are put on in a moment and fastened with studs. It will be a miniature of Mr. Vanderbilt's well known Venture road coach.
